End of the Blood-Lust Trail In Pictures—

END OF THE ROAD—A fourteen-day spree through Ohio in which six were murdered came to an end yesterday morning for John C. West and Robert M. Daniels at this intersection of State Route 637 and U. S. Route 224, six miles east of Van Wert. Arrow at left shows where truck in which the two killers were riding was stopped. Cross shows where Sgt. Leonard Conn, of the Van Wert police department, was critically wounded by West. Before Conn went down, he fatally wounded West.

THE TRUCK—Curiosity seekers at Van Wert, who numbered in the hundreds, mill around the truck in which West and Daniels were captured. Car on the top of the driveaway is the one in which Daniels was riding while West drove. When spotted, Daniels shouted, "Don't shoot! Don't shoot! Just tell me what to do!" West answered with a volley of fire directed at Sgt. Leonard Conn.

TRAVELING MEN—This is the array of luggage taken from the stolen truck after the capture of the two killers. Although it was not immediately determined whether part of luggage belonged to some of the murder victims, Daniels and West were dressed well and dressed in clothes that fit, too, leading authorities to believe that the killers traveled comfortably. Harry Henry, deputy sheriff of Van Wert county, inspects one of the weapons also found in the truck.

ENOUGH FOR A SMALL ARMY—That was one comment heard from the crowd of onlookers as they gazed open-mouthed at the arsenal carried by the killers. One of the weapons found in the truck was identified as being stolen from the Niebel residence on the night of the murder here. Daniels said he used an old Mauser automatic for the Mansfield killings.—(Photos by Paul Kellam, N-J staffer)

Air Path To Berlin Expands

U. S. to Use More Planes

BERLIN —(INS)— Anglo-American planes—pledged to supply western Berlin "indefinitely"—defied Russian practice bombing and firing today to feed the encircled city.

Soviet harassment of the Allied airlift coincided with Russian renewal of the "currency war."

Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky, Red army commandant in Germany, ordered the issuance of new money for "greater Berlin" and the eastern zone of the Reich.

The announcement said that the money—known as "deutche marks"— will be the only legal tender for the Soviet occupation zone and "greater Berlin."

The Russian-adopted currency name is the same as that used by the western Allies for their money.

Despite the Soviet attempts to discourage the airlift, British and American airmen were primed today for an extended program of aerial transport.

According to Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor, the western powers intend to supply Berlin by air through the rigorous German winter and if need be, "indefinitely."

WILL BOOST TONNAGE

Clay said last night, prior to leaving Washington for Germany, that the daily tonnage of the airlife—currently about 2,500 tons—will be increased to about 4,500.

The stepup will be accomplished by substituting and adding the 4-engined C-54s to the present fleet composed largely of twin-engined C-47s.

The former can carry ten tons of cargo as against the 2½ tons of the C-47s. The increased flow will provide enough food for all Germans in the western zones of Berlin and enough fuel to allay serious hardship.

Yesterday's tonnage came to 2,531. The British landed 265 planes, nine more than the Americans.

In accusing the Russians of violating the air corridors, the RAF said the Soviet officials failed to report the incidents to the Berlin air safety center, and gave the British no prior notification.

The British said that both practice bombing and target firing are specifically prohibited by the four-power air agreement.

Museum Gets N-J Spotlight For Sunday

Only a block from Central park is one of the finest museums in northcentral Ohio—yet few Mansfielders know of its existence. Sunday's News-Journal takes you on a tour of the little-known Richland county Historical museum.

Can the physically handicapped have fun? You'll want to read an illustrated feature which describes how a group of Mansfield blind persons spent a week at Lake Erie.

Other features you won't want to miss include how a local store trims its display windows; a spry Mansfield oldster describing events of more than 80 years ago, and a host of Associated Press features from all over the world.

New Party Sets Stage For Wallace

Bases Campaign On Peace Bid

CONVENTION HALL, PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Henry A. Wallace today becomes the presidential candidate of the newly-christened Progressive party—and his supporters said U. S. voters have a choice between "Wallace and war."

With his acceptance speech tonight, the former vice president and cabinet member formally tosses his hat into 1948's biggest political race.

Wallace will be battling President Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey on a platform his keynote speaker told cheering, singing and booing delegates is "what the people demand, and what the people shall have."

Keynoter Charles P. Howard, Iowa Negro editor, laid it on the line last night. He struck hard at both Republicans and Democrats, high prices, foreign policy, Congress, "Jim Crowism."

Urging America's "plain people" to join the fight against the old-line political parties, Howard said the choice was "Wallace or war."

And when Wallace accepts the Progressive party banner tonight in Shibe park, by his side will be Senator Glen Taylor, Idaho Democrat. Taylor left the ranks headed by President Truman to become the new party's number two man—he'll accept the Progressive vice-presidential nomination.

Back of the Wallace-Taylor ticket will be a national committee expected to be headed by former Gov. Elmer Benson of Minnesota. Also: a singing, crusading band of delegates who showed last night more vocal power per man—and woman—than the Republicans or Democrats earlier were able to register in Philadelphia's overworked and hot convention hall.

CHILDREN QUARANTINED

RAVENNA —(AP)— About 125 children at the Ravenna arsenal have been quarantined as a precautionary move against polio, Maj. Orloff Monghan announced today. The arsenal swimming pool also has been closed until further notice. A possible polio case has been reported at nearby Windham.

Widow In Line for Reward

N-J Picks Woman Who Gave Alarm

Mrs. Rita Smith, Tiffin, 25-year-old widow of one of the victims of kill-crazy John C. West and Robert M. Daniels, was nominated today to receive The News-Journal's $250 reward for information leading to the solution of the Niebel family massacre.

Since it was Mrs. Smith who spread the alarm resulting in the posse capture of the mad dog killers after her own husband had been killed, editors of The News-Journal decided this morning that she is the most logical candidate to receive the newspaper's reward.

The News-Journal had offered $250 reward for information to this newspaper leading to arrest and conviction of the Niebel murderers. The purpose behind the offer of reward for information to the newspaper, rather than to law-enforcement authorities, was the belief that persons who might have been afraid to go to authorities would provide information through the newspaper as intermediary.

HUSBAND SLAIN

As soon as the case of Daniels is formally disposed of in courts, Mrs. Smith will be paid the News-Journal reward, unless facts now undiscovered should preclude this action.

Mrs. Smith and her husband, James J. Smith, were the first to meet the slayers Thursday night as they made their savage attempt to escape the whirlwind they had sown.

While one of the two held Mrs. Smith at gunpoint in the back seat of the Smith car, the other marched Smith up the road and killed him without reason or provocation. After the gunmen fled, Mrs. Smith gave the alarm that brought Ohio's greatest posse into the area and resulted in the death of West at a road blockade and the capture of Daniels.

Meanwhile, the second $250 reward posted by the newspaper, for information to The News-Journal which will lead to arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the Crescent cafe bombing on the morning of July 5 still stands.

WILL KEEP SECRET

The newspaper feels that no effort should be spared to bring to justice all law breakers who contribute in any way to the disruption of peace, decency and law enforcement in the city.

Information on this crime, if provided to the newspaper, will be passed along to law enforcement authorities without revelation of the name of the person who provides it, if this is requested.

In the July 5 bombing, two Mansfield policemen and two firemen were injured in the explosion. It was no fault of the bombers that these men were not also killed. The newspaper feels that no effort should be spared to bring these persons to justice also.

WILL PURCHASE LINER

NEW YORK—(AP)—The 26,314-ton liner America, the nation's largest, will be bought back by the United States lines from the government for $7,460,000.

300 At Private Rites

Three Niebels Laid Quietly to Rest

By NITA BRANSON

John Elmer Niebel, 50; his wife, Nolana Parrish Niebel, 51, and their blonde, gay daughter, Phyllis, 20, were laid to rest yesterday afternoon in the Mansfield cemetery, years ahead of their alloted time because two avenging killers ignored God's and man's law that human life is sacred. The services were held less than six hours after one of their slayers was killed and the other captured at Van Wert.

Behind them they left a niche in family, church and community life that will never be filled. They were buried as they would have wished—with their pastor, Rev. Ben F. Hagelbarger, saying the words of farewell as he had probably said them many times at the close of services at the First Christian church. They were buried while their two grief-stricken sons and brothers, other members of the family and hundreds of friends watched with tear-filled eyes.

Although services at the Jones Memorial had been designated as private, the funeral home was packed with more than 300 who gathered to pay quiet, solemn tribute to their good friends and neighbors, while dozens of others stood on the porch, or gathered in twos and threes on the lawn to discuss in muted voices the tragic events of the past three days.

Within the funeral home, the three caskets stood near each other amidst a hundred floral pieces, offered as the last possible tribute to the three who had lived so happily just a short time before and who had died so helplessly.

TWO-FOLD TALK

Rev. Hagelbarger's talk was two-fold in theme. He first spoke of the fine life which John and Nolana Niebel and their daughter had lived.

"We stand today," he said, "with heavy hearts bowed down by deep sorrow. This tragic event has been a severe threat to the decent living of city, community and all mankind.

"I want to say first words of appreciation for these Christian lives. They have been one of the finest families I have ever known down through the years. They were a happy family, kind and thoughtful, spreading goodwill among their many, many friends.

"They were not only members of the church but lived deeply its spiritual life and their religion was real as demonstrated in their lives. They were choice personalities because their purpose in life was the highest."

For the two sons, brothers and sisters, Rev. Hagelbarger took words of comfort from John 6:68: "Lord to whom shall we go? thou hast words of eternal life."

"We go in times of sorrow to the One who gave these eternal words, to the Father who cares about His children. Nothing can separate us from His love.

"He who created the stars is able to heal broken hearts.

"You have the comfort of their many friends. And you have, too, the comfort of the Master who said 'Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest.' The eternal God Himself gives us comfort as real as that of a parent."

When Rev. Hagelbarger had finished speaking, Walter Burrier, past commander of Knights Templar, and Mrs. Isabel Roman of the Eastern Star spoke briefly in eulogy of their former associates.

Services at the grave were brief as Rev. Hagelbarger committed the bodies unto eternity and closed with a word of prayer.

City to Build Fire Station

Additional $20,000 Needed for Project

The city will definitely build a new No. 4 fire station at 411 Newman street.

This was disclosed today by Councilman Charles N. Shultz, chairman of the finance committee who reported that "every effort is being made to find the extra $20,000 needed to make the appropriation for the work equal the combination of lowest bids on the work."

Bids were opened two weeks ago and the total of the lowest bids was $74,648, approximately $20,000 above the sum appropriated by council for the construction of the two-engine fire station.

The board of control cannot let any contracts until the necessary money is appropriated.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley is studying the city's books in an effort to find the needed funds. Engaged at present in the annual re-estimation of city revenues, it is hoped that added income may be found to help pay for the money needed to build the station.

Shultz said "we must build this new station to provide more adequate fire protection to the factory district of town."

"If we don't raise the needed $20,000, we'll have to repair the present structure and that would be a waste of money."

Roomer Missing; So Is $203

A roomer who pulled a disappearing act is being sought by police today in connection with the theft of $203 in cash from the home of Floyd Myers, 67 Mendota court, early this morning.

Myers reported to police that he left $72 in his work trousers and $130 in a dress suit coat in a closet at his home yesterday evening and when he returned from a trip to Ashland early today he discovered his money and his roomer missing.

Lutz Drafts Three Murder Warrants

Richland county probably will try Robert Murl Daniels, 22, surviving member of the kill-crazy duo who murdered six innocent Ohioans during a 14-day trail of blood.

Prosecutor Theodore Lutz left today for Celina (Mercer county) with three warrants charging Daniels with first degree murder. He had one warrant naming Daniels as the killer of each of the three members of the Niebel family—John Elmer Niebel, 50, superintendent of Ohio State Reformatory's 1,600-acre farm; his wife, Nolana, 51, and their daughter, Phyllis, 20.

Lutz was confident that Daniels would be released to Richland county. "He's as good as here," he commented as he left.

He explained that at a conference of officials of Franklin, Seneca and Richland counties yesterday, a tentative agreement was reached for trial of the ruthless killer in the county having the best case against Daniels.

"They want the county that has the best case to try him so he will be put away permanently and cannot again endanger society," Lutz said.

Lutz said Daniels's return to Mansfield probably would be prevented only in the event that Sgt. L. D. Conn of the Van Wert police department should die. The officer was wounded when Daniels's companion in the wild-killing orgy, John Coulter West, 24, opened fire as Sheriff F. Roy Shaffer and Conn stopped the big automobile transport truck in which they were riding near Van Wert.

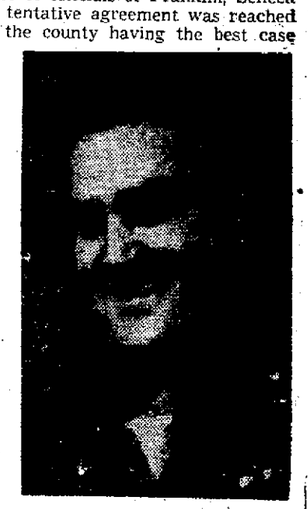
"I will ask Sheriff Shaffer to turn Daniels over to us," Lutz said. "But, I expect him to say 'no' because of Conn's condition.

"We are taking the three warrants, however, in the belief that Conn will recover and we can bring Daniels back with us tonight."

REPORTED IMPROVED

Conn, shot in the lungs, underwent an operation last night in the Van Wert hospital. He rallied after submitting to blood transfusions and was reported "considerably improved" today.

There was no intention on the part of either West or Daniels to spare Conn's life.



SGT. LEONARD CONN

"If I hadn't been caught sleeping," Daniels snarled from his jail cell, "I'd have killed all those cops."

Daniels was transferred to the modern jail at Celina last night from Van Wert. Sumner Walters, assistant prosecutor of Van Wert

Late OSR Psychiatrist Called West 'a Moron'

Files of the Ohio Bureau of Probation and Parole in Columbus today branded John Coulter West, slain murderer of the Niebel family, as "a moron" with an intelligence quotient of 60. They termed West's companion in crime, Robert Murl Daniels, as a youth with "a high average intelligence" but having "psychopathic tendencies."

A summary of the bureau's records shows:

John Coulter West's parents were separated when he was an infant 23 years ago. He was admitted to the Ohio State Reformatory Jan. 16, 1947. He was imprisoned on a charge of grand larceny, having stolen four truck tires, tubes, and rims from the Weaver Trailer and Body company in Akron. The stolen goods were returned to the company.

West was sentenced to serve one to seven years. This was the first time he had been sentenced, but he had previously been on probation in Cleveland on a burglary and larceny charge.

The Pardon and Parole commission heard West's case on Dec. 19, 1947. It is a regular practice to grant a parole hearing at the end of the minimum sentence including time off for good behavior.

INTERVIEWED BY BOARD

The commission members personally interviewed West and studied his reformatory record and the report of the reformatory psychiatrist, the late Dr. M. N. Fowler.

Dr. Fowler reported that West was "mentally deficient, a moron," with an intelligence quotient of 60.

The psychiatrist said West was "cooperative and friendly," had a good attitude and normal apprehension, but revealed a

Daniels Duo Killed More Than Dillinger

Veteran Ohio police officials still were arguing today the question: "Which was the worse — the Dillinger gang of the early 1930's or the Daniels-West pair of mad-dog killers?"

There were those who called the two Ohio Reformatory parolees "punks" by comparison with the Dillingers.

There were others, and they included many an official who was in the thick of the hunt for both the Dillinger gang and the Daniels-West killers, who said:

"The Dillingers were Sunday school boys by comparison. Sure, they robbed and they plundered, but they never killed unless they were cornered. Daniels and West killed apparently for the sheer joy of killing."

The two reformatory parolees, who were cornered yesterday near Van Wert, killed six persons, including three Mansfielders.

John Dillinger and his gang made crime a business. They didn't kill for the sheer lust of shedding blood.

KILLED FOR REVENGE

None of the killings attributed to Daniels, 24, and West, 22, made sense unless interpreted in terms of vengeance and an animal urge to kill.

The nerves of Ohioans were as much on edge this week during the manhunt for Daniels and West as 14 years ago when Dillinger and his men shot their way through the midwest.

Dillinger finally was shot to death by federal agents outside a Chicago movie theater July 22, 1934, 14 years and one day before West was killed and Daniels captured. His henchman, Herbert Youngblood, was shot to death March 16, the same year, in Port Huron, Mich.

Two of Dillinger's toughest followers died in the Ohio State penitentiary death house. Charles Makley was shot fatally when he and Harry Pierpont attempted to escape from death row. Pierpont recovered from wounds to go to the electric chair even while Dillinger roamed the countryside, shooting, looting and killing. The night of Pierpont's execution, guards patrolled the area around Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus, fearful lest Dillinger lead an attempt to free his pal at the eleventh hour.

PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1

Dillinger, public enemy No. 1 of the early 30's, was a different type criminal than the mad dog, wanton murderers of the Niebel family, a Columbus tavern keeper and the two unfortunates near Tiffin who just happened to cross the path of West and Daniels.

Dillinger's sensational crime career began shortly after his release on parole in May, 1933. Between June 10, 1933, and July 22, 1934, when he was slain in Chicago by U. S. agents, Dillinger:

Killed a county sheriff, a policeman, a federal agent and CWA worker who got in the bad man's way while he was escaping a police trap. During the same period of a little over 13 months he broke jail twice, shot his way out of two police traps, robbed at least seven banks, and raided three small-town police stations to obtain arms and ammunition.

LOCAL NOTORIETY

The two youths whose crime career came to an end at a road block near Van Wert had only local notoriety before they flashed into the national spotlight with their six killings.

Daniels, formerly of Columbus, had a police record dating back to 1941. Then he was sentenced to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster for automobile theft.

In 1943, Daniels was sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory after conviction on an unarmed robbery charge at Waverly in Southern Ohio. He later escaped from the Grafton honor camp, but gave himself up in Columbus and returned to the reformatory. He was paroled last September.

Citizens at Waverly still recall the excitement stirred up by Daniels in their community five years ago.

West and two other youths from Columbus held up a country grocery store at Buchanan in Pike county Sept. 22, 1943. They hit the proprietor, Ellsworth Walls, over the head and trussed him up in a storage room. They ransacked the place and escaped with $101 in cash.

'KILL CRAZY'

Sheriffs and deputies of Pike and Adams county caught the trio near Rarden, O. Taken to Waverly the three youths pleaded guilty to unarmed robbery and were sentenced to one to 15 years in the reformatory.

Officials at Waverly said that following the capture Daniels' two companions told him that Daniels was "kill crazy." They said they had to talk him out of killing the store owner.

West, formerly of Parkersburg, W. Va., was arrested three times in Cleveland in 1946. The third time he was turned over to authorities in Akron, where he was charged with grand larceny. He was sentenced to the reformatory on two counts. He was paroled last March 31.

Daniels and West apparently became acquainted while inmates at the Mansfield reformatory.

Bloody Trail Left By Duo Across Ohio

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Here's the bloody murder trail left across Ohio the last two weeks by John C. West and Robert M. Daniels, former Reformatory inmates who hit the end of their crime career at a Van Wert road block battle with police yesterday:

July 9—Fired shots into floor of Joe's Grill and Bar, Columbus, menacing 100 customers and escaping with $8,000.

July 10—(12:06 a. m.)—Killed Earl C. Ambrose, owner of Ambrose Grill, Columbus; wounded woman customer, during holdup.

July 19—Applied for room at New Lexington, O., hotel, but sped away in same gray car used in holdups.

July 21—Killed Farm Supt. John E. Niebel, 50, of Mansfield Reformatory, his wife, Nolanda, 51, and daughter Phyllis, 20, in a cornfield, leaving their nude bodies.

July 22—Killed James Smith, 25-year-old Tiffin farmer as he sat beside his young wife in automobile which they had been forced to side of road.

July 23—Killed Orville Taylor, 28, of Niles, Mich., at Tiffin roadside park, driver of driveaway truck. Used truck in getaway attempt.

July 23—West killed, Daniels captured in gun battle with police at road block near Van Wert.

200 Children Attending Bible Classes At Camp

The children of Free Methodist church members throughout Ohio may not be able to take religious education during school hours, but 200 at least are having the privilege of instruction and religious activity at the church camp grounds on the Lucas road, where Rev. Myrtus Rice, president of the conference Sunday school board, supervises a Daily Vacation Bible school.

Assisted by Miss Irene Stantz of West Unity, Rev. Rice daily teaches an average attendance group of 100 children, meeting in the special children's "big top" on the far side of the 33-acre camp meeting grounds.

Classes are held each morning beginning with devotional periods. These periods include general singing, Bible passages, and object lessons. Then for 45 minutes, the children study the "Scripture Press Daily Vacation Bible School" plan, which contains certain phases of Bible teaching.

A second 45 minutes period is given over to activities and handicraft.

MAKE ARK

"Just now they're making Noah's ark and shoes worn during early Biblical history," Rev. Rice explained.

At 1 p. m. there is the Junior Missionary society session during which Miss Virginia Bates talks of the various mission fields and itheir needs throughout the world.

"Next Friday morning the school will close with a "Decision Day" period, when the children will testify and make decisions to lead a Christian life," Rev. Rice said.

GRADUATION EXERCISE

The last Friday evening of the camp period, there will be graduation exercises in the big auditorium where between 6:30 and 7:30 p. m. parents and friends will provide the audience, while the children receive their graduation diplomas.

"There's one fine thing about this year's class of children that I have noticed in particular," Rev. Rice said. "That's the enthusiasm with which they seem to have looked forward to these classes and the discipline during school. This year's group of children is the most orderly we've ever had and I've had charge of this phase of the camp meeting work for three years."

Rev. Thomas B. Orr of Galion, superintendent of the camp meeting, agreed with Rev. Rice.

"That is very true," he declared, "and I think it's all the result of the home training they get throughout the year preparing them for the Daily Vacation Bible school during the camp period."

Horoscope

For Sunday, July 25.
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

SUNDAY'S horoscope encourages a day of relaxation and quiet diversion rather than lively or ambitious attempts at gayety, social or sentimental celebrations or functions. There might be mutual disappointment, lack of cordiality or hospitality. Possibly such might be owing to lowered vitality, stagnant energies or inertia, with little return or enjoyment for forcing social activities. Diet and other consideration for health might be a good investment.

For the Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to find their aspirations and ambitions badly in need of stimulus, since physical inertia or depletion may have a tendency to nullify specific effort. A general lack of interest, lowered in domestic, social, or sentimental associations may find kindred reaction in impediments or frustration in all other matters. Be alert to economy of funds also.

A child born on this day may not be especially interested in social, romantic or domestic activities, nor may it be predisposed to seek place or prestige in public success.

Sheriff Tells of Finding Daniels Cowering In Auto

VAN WERT — Sheriff F. Roy Shaffer told graphically the story of how he led the group of peace officers who shot and killed John C. West and captured Robert M. Daniels near here yesterday.

His account follows:

"We had our car blocking one lane of traffic out of Van Wert when I saw the auto transport coming up a good way off.

"While Conn (Leonard Conn, Van Wert Policeman) covered me, I stepped out to flag the truck down. I put my head in the door and asked the driver if anyone had stopped him up ahead.

"He said 'No.'

"I then asked him if there was anyone riding with him and he replied, 'Not to my knowledge.'

"He looked a little nervous. I told Conn to watch him while I looked over the two decks of cars. Conn got behind my car with his machine gun while I climbed up on the transport.

"I got up on top of the transport and ripped off the canvas from behind the first car. I saw a hat in the back seat and then I knew I had something.

"I ripped off the canvas further and there was Daniels cowering in the front seat.

"'Come out,' I said.

"He was scared and white and said, 'Don't shoot. You've got me, don't shoot.'

HAD THREE GUNS

"Daniels had three revolvers and a rifle in the front seat with him. He kept saying 'Don't shoot' as he got out of the car.

"Then everything happened. We got out on the right side of the transport and West jumped out of the door on the driver's side and opened up.

"From what I could tell Conn only used a short burst on West and then it was all over. It happened so d—n fast nobody knows who got hit first and it was all over in seconds.

"I don't know why they stopped. The lane of the road on the other side was free and they could have gotten by."

GOP Needs Only Slight Vote Shift

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Republican campaign strategists figure a voting shift of five per cent in this year's election would freeze President Truman out of all but three states outside the South.

Franklin D. Roosevelt carried only five states in 1944 by a margin of more than five per cent. Those states and Mr. Roosevelt's percentage of the popular vote cast were: Rhode Island 58.7; Arizona 59; Utah 60.5; California 56.5; Washington 57.4.

With Henry A. Wallace on the ballot in California and Washington, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey probably will need only to hold his own this year to defeat Mr. Truman in those states. Both have large left wing blocs.

Rhode Island, Arizona and Utah would not be expected to give Wallace much support if he gets on their ballots. They generally are accounted the surest Democratic states outside the South in this election year. Polls and political observers agree that Wallace will get the bulk of his support from voters who backed Mr. Roosevelt four years ago. That will make it tough for Mr. Truman in every state where Wallace is on the ballot, but especially difficult in the big industrial states with lots of electoral votes.

The Ohio Supreme court ruled that Wallace can go on the November election ballot in that state. Legal action is pending to get him on the Illinois ballot, too.

Illinois has 29 electoral votes, Ohio 26. Mr. Roosevelt barely carried Illinois four years ago with 51.7 per cent of the major party vote cast. Dewey won Ohio with 50.7 per cent. With Wallace on those state ballots, Mr. Truman would be pretty sure to lose their electoral votes.

Wallace is safely aboard the ballot in about 40 states, according to his campaign managers, although they do not come up with a definite list of them. It is a fact, however, that he is on the ballot in New York, Pennsylvania and California which cast an aggregate of 105 of the 531 votes in the electoral college.

Capture Ends Nightmarish Vigil of Daniels' Parents

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— With the capture of Robert M. Daniels, suspected accomplice in a seven-murder crime wave, his parents ended their nightmarish vigil yesterday.

"Is my boy alive?" was the first greeting a reporter received when he visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Daniels at their home.

The father sat silent across the room, his face grim and worn. Mrs. Daniels, a middle-aged woman, slight appearing in a plain blue dress, twisted a handkerchief in her fingers.

"I prayed so hard for my son not to be shot," she said. "I prayed day and night.

"We're awfully glad he's alive. But now they'll probably send him to the electric chair."

At this point the telephone rang loudly. It was a friend offering sympathy. A storm raged outside and rain beat heavily on the window panes.

"I want it all to be a closed book," the father said. "We raised our boy right. We did the best we could. We're good people."

"If it hadn't been for Dillinger and the way they almost made a hero of him years ago, when my boy was young, maybe my son wouldn't have been in trouble today. The time he spent in the Reformatory didn't help either."

Mrs. Daniels broke in with a question that no one tried to answer: "Where will they put him now?"

Pre-Graduation Classes Underway

Second Swim Period Starts Aug. 10

The first of swimming tests, preparatory to "graduation" by next Friday, are now beign run off at Liberty park pool for children who have been entered in the first of the Red Cross water safety courses for the summer, Gerald Coron, water safety director, said today.

"A second summer class for children who want to learn to swim, will be started on Aug. 10," Coron said, "and those failing to make the grade during the first class may continue in the new class if they wish."

A coupon for applicants for instruction is printed herewith.

"So far," Coron said, "the children are passing their initial tests very well. Of course these are not the final ones. But we're finding an odd thing.

"The children who are the smallest in stature and seemingly the less reliant are having the most trouble. They are the children, presumably, who have been the most pampered and have not learned to be on their own.

"We are giving those children special attention, hoping that they can catch up with the more reliant ones. We are very pleased with the results of the classes, although more swimming space would have given us a greater opportunity for individual attention.

"In any event, we are sure that we have considerably decreased the 75 per cent of Mansfield school children who could not swim."

Why Were Youths Killers?

AS THE GREWSOME story of an orgy of atrocious crimes—six ruthless murders—draws toward its concluding chapter, the thought uppermost in many minds is in the form of a question: "How did it come about that two youths reverted to the traits of savagery evidenced by the viciousness of their crimes?"

Study the pictures of those two young men—aged 22 and 24—as printed in yesterday's News-Journal, and you will find no facial features that would identify them as criminals, or criminally inclined.

True, both of them had criminal records, but not of a seriousness that would have led to suspicion that they were capable of such heinous crimes as the one who is living has confessed—the other one is dead.

The last chapter in this tragic story will be delayed for several months. Then, unless fate intervenes, a young man will be taken from a cell in death row in the grim old Ohio penitentiary in Columbus, marched to a small building in the prison yard, strapped in a strongly built chair, and an instant later a death-dealing electric current will be sent through his body . . . another few minutes and the corpse will be taken from the chair and placed at the disposal of sorrowing parents who had lived through months of agony as they spent sleepless nights wondering what they had left undone that might have changed the course of their wayward child.

This trend of thought is induced by the turn of a page to another item in yesterday's News-Journal—one which tells of the appearance of a 13- and a 14-year-old boy in juvenile court, and their confession of a theft. Such items are not unusual, nor are those which tell of youthful vandalism, property destruction, and other offenses classed as "minor" and attributed to what is called "juvenile delinquency."

There is sometimes parental and community disregard of the fact that crime is also a matter of "progressive education," and that there can be no assurance of a stopping place short of the reformatory, the penitentiary—or, even more horrible thought, the electric chair.

These are some of the things that the thoughtful people of Mansfield might well contemplate as they view the local scene, in which breeding places of juvenile and adult delinquency are complacently accepted as "necessary evils," with official assumption that "a majority of people want it that way"—as in the case of sanctioned return of illegal gambling, after a two-months' administration ban on this form of law violation.

FCC Still Shelters Lamb

THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION has handed down another of its arbitrary and dictatorial decisions in a radio station licensing case.

Early this week, the FCC announced a 3-to-2 decision in which it makes a mockery of justice, logic and consistency by proposing to deny the Erie, Pa., Times, leading newspaper in Erie, the right to operate a radio station.

As in the case of the refusal to license the Mansfield News-Journal, the Erie paper's permit denial was not based on any contention of lack of competency, inadequacy of equipment, or lack of financial responsibility. In this case, the only reason given in news reports is the desire of three members of the seven-man FCC to keep newspapers and radio stations divided.

The three members of the FCC who decided against the Erie Times seek to justify their obvious prejudice by arguing that competition in the news and advertising field will best be preserved by sidetracking newspaper radio applicants. They apparently choose to ignore the fact that any radio station can start a newspaper without getting a permit from anyone.

Even so this prejudice might be understandable, if it were honest and sincere. But the Erie situation, in itself, provides unimpeachable evidence that this is not the case.

Red-tinged Toledo Lawyer Edward Lamb, who operates another newspaper in Erie, the Dispatch, applied for radio station licenses there, and received not only one broadcasting station permit, but two. One of these, a permit for a television station, was among five permits granted Lamb in a two-week period recently, despite evidence before the FCC that Lamb had been charged with communist affiliations and sympathies.

Wholesale granting of permits to Lamb figured in action by Congress to investigate the FCC. One of the questions the investigators undoubtedly will want to have answered by the FCC is why a majority of that board found it highly desirable and "in the public interest" to put radio facilities in the hands of Newspaper Operator Lamb, author of a book extolling Russia's communist system, and legal defender of communists, while at the same time finding it "not in the public interest" to grant one permit to the newspaper competing with Lamb's in Erie.

Speed Shown By State Legislators

SPECIFIC purposes of the special session of the Ohio legislature, called by Governor Herbert, were accomplished so quickly that it may be wondered why the business of a regular session cannot be conducted more expeditiously.

True, a pattern was presented for the Thursday meeting which prevented introduction of any proposals not included in the governor's call—not even the apportionment of more money to relieve the financial stringency of many Ohio cities.

Excluding purchases under 41 cents from application of the retail sales tax, to become effective August 1, will remove the penalty tax on some small purchases but will leave the sales tax law in need of further revision, particularly as it applies to medicines and to food served in eating places.

Increasing funds available for food and fuel used by institutions operated by the state welfare department was required procedure, due to inflationary costs, and action to increase monthly allowances of old age pensioners and needy blind will meet with very general approval.

The Holt County Democrat, away out in Missouri, presents an intriguing thought: "Despite all the crazy ideas being promoted by crackpots, the hope of the country still depends on its schools and churches."

Drive carefully tomorrow—and in the direction of some of the beauty spots in this vicinity.

The Mountain Goat Is An Amateur.

Raymond Moley's Analysis

Arguments Based On Juggled Figures

A NEW statistic has come into campaign oratory, and it certainly was overworked at the late Democratic convention. It is the dollar figure of national income. Barkley used it. Truman used it. Several lesser orators used it.

At least we know that the same person did not write both Truman's speeches, for the figure was different in each. Barkley's was $210,000,000,000; Truman's, $203,000,000,000.

The national income figure, which, as economists know, is a highly shaky measure of prosperity, was used to carry out the inevitable contrast with the terrible year 1932.

The Democratic platform used the same device with a variation. Farm income, independent business and professional income and employes' earnings were compared with 1933.

Not once, as far as I could perceive, did a speaker suggest that a 1932 dollar and a 1948 dollar differed in value. In 1932 dollars the national income today would be slightly over $121,000,000,000.

Thus, Truman, Barkley and the Democratic platform point with pride at an inflated national income and view with alarm the Republicans who, they say, caused it to be so big.

* * *

Juggler of Figures.

THIS device of using business statistics to prove things suggests the ghost writing exploits of the late Charles Michelson, who filled the mouths of Democratic orators for 20 years. All that Charley needed for a masterpiece was a typewriter, some paper, a new newspaper and an old file of newspapers. If he were writing in Hoover days, he made the comparison between the flourishing days of Wilson and the lean days of Hoover.

As 1932 was passed, Charley didn't even need the old file. All he needed was his memory of 1932 figures and the daily newspaper. In 1936 and 1940 he would stud his account with statistics of new businesses, lifted from the financial news. He would grab profit figures out of corporation reports.

Altogether, he would "prove" with many a flourish that the Democrats created millions of profits for this or that company. Losses were never noted in those days. They were all noted in 1932.

How Charley did love business failures in 1932 and profits in 1936! Apparently the new speech writers are in the great Michelson tradition.

If two dates must be compared, it might be pointed out that not only should national income figures be corrected so that dollars mean the same thing, but that other comparisons are in order.

How do taxes under the Democrats compare with taxes 16 years ago? In 1932, the federal revenue amounted to $1,793,000,000, while last year the federal government's taxing power brought in almost $48,000,000,000.

What of the relative size of the national debt? From the comparatively Lilliputian $19,500,000,000 in 1932, it has soared to a Brobdingnagian $255,000,000,000.

Even this is poor argument. It merely cites two coincidental items, without proving cause and effect.

Since national income includes government spending, an administration can make it bigger by merely lifting its budget sights.

Finally, as this column has already noted, the responsibility for inflation over the past year almost exclusively rests upon the administration: At this moment, in fact, there is evidence that it is seeking to promote inflation still farther.

Washington Calling

Wallace On the Spot

By MARQUIS CHILDS

PHILADELPHIA — The arrest of top officials of the Communist party in the United States puts Henry Wallace in a most unhappy position. Coming just before the convention of his third party here in Philadelphia, it forces him to make a decision that he has long sought to evade.

In reality, of course, he has no choice. He has gone so far with the shrewd managers who operate on the fringes of communism that only one course would seem to be open to him. He must espouse the cause of the communists who are raising the cry of persecution.

William Z. Foster and the others had scarcely been arrested when the national committee of the Communist party issued a two-page statement. The significant passage of that statement said:

"Terrified of the growing support for the Wallace-Taylor ticket, the Democratic high command is seeking to brand the new party as 'criminal' because among the opponents of Wall Street's two old parties and their candidates are the communists, who also join with all other progressives in supporting the new People's Anti-War Party."

The significance lies in the identification of interest between the communists and the "new party." From the beginning this same strategy has been clear.

The Communist party took the credit for initiating the Wallace movement and every effort has been made to build up the relationship.

Wallace is not a communist and he has never been a communist. There are indications that the fond embrace of communism has made him increasingly unhappy. In an informal talk in New Hampshire he went so far as to express the wish that the communists would enter their own ticket in the presidential election. Then, said Wallace, I might lose 100,000 votes but I would gain 3,000,000.

But the communists have not taken the hint nor are they likely to. They see in Wallace a useful symbol to use in recruiting a following which would otherwise be frightened by the label communism.

* * *

Wallace's Dilemma.

THE growing split between communists and fellow-travelers, on the one hand, and non-communist liberals and radicals, on the other hand, has stimulated the report that Wallace would withdraw. When he is asked about that possibility, he answers in a tired voice that he intends to go on to the end of the road.

He sounds, in private conversation at least, like a man who finds himself in a wretched situation which he had not foreseen. And even if he knew how to get himself out of it, those who have become his chief advisers would make it all but impossible for one of Wallace's malleable temperament.

It is too early to say whether the communist cry of persecution will convince any others than the faithful who are ready to take up whatever line is ordered.

In recent months many Americans with no connection whatsoever with communism have been deeply concerned by the way in which individuals have been condemned for their beliefs.

The indicted communists will do everything they can to make themselves martyrs, conveniently ignoring the fact that they persistently subvert and pervert the law to their own uses when it suits their convenience. Nor should the political force of martyrdom be discounted.

There are millions of Americans who feel they cannot get a square deal because of discriminations and barriers raised against them. They are not communists. But they may be attracted to communism and to the third party if they feel there is no other way out.

Summary of Week's Happenings

'Political Poker Game' Starts Monday

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A GAME of political poker opens in Washington Monday with the reconvening of the 80th Congress. President Truman is the dealer; he called the special session. He will try to call the cards in his special message. Mr. Truman's purpose is to put the Republican-controlled Congress on the spot by challenging it to make good on the month-old pledges in the party platform enacted at the convention in Philadelphia.

Other players in the game are the Republican majority and the Democratic minority in Congress. Another participant, who stands to win or lose even though he actually will not sit in, is Gov. Dewey, the Republican presidential nominee.

It will be a game of showdown. All bluffs will be called. Stakes will be high—for the next presidency of the United States.

Truman Strategy.

Mr. Truman's strategy apparently is to stress domestic affairs and to attack what he calls the "reactionary" record of the 80th Congress on such issues as prices and housing. He may try to drive a wedge between the Republican Old Guard, which wrote much of that record, and younger elements within the party.

Republican leaders in Congress may counter the President's drive by reintroducing a civil rights bill. Southern Democrats who bolted their party convention because of that plank in the platform will get their chance to snarl the session by filibustering.

Unless the President has something new to offer Monday, say Republican leaders, he has slight chance of getting a new domestic program enacted. His proposals for price-wage controls and consumer rationing were rejected by a Democratic Congress in 1946, they point out, as well as by the Republican-controlled Congress in 1947 and 1948.

Philadelphia's Third Convention.

Meanwhile, the Third Party movement was formally organized this week in Philadelphia when Henry A. Wallace and Sen. Glenn Taylor of Idaho accepted nominations for president and vice-president, respectively.

More than 2,500 delegates from 48 states attended. Unlike the previous two major party conventions, however, there was no contest for nominations and interest centered primarily in the platform to be adopted.

At Home

Foreign Spies.

Several hundred foreign spies have sneaked into this country as employes of the United Nations and similar international good will organizations, the state department recently disclosed to a Senate judiciary committee.

The U.S. can do nothing about it because the foreign agents are covered by an immunity act, one diplomatic spokesman said.

Robert C. Alexander, assistant chief of the department's visa commission, told senators that at least several hundred known or suspected subversive foreign agents now here "are not subject to exclusion under U.S. laws."

* * *

Crack-Down on Reds.

Twelve top domestic communists were rounded up by the Federal Bureau of Investigation this week to face indictments charging them with seeking the violent overthrow of the American government.

They included William Z. Foster, national chairman of the Communist party; Eugene Dennis, communist general secretary, and Benjamin J. Davis, jr., communist member of the New York city council.

Carl Winters, chairman of the Michigan State Communist Council was arrested in Detroit.

* * *

Atom Still Problem.

When the United Nations general assembly convenes at Paris in September, the United States will keep pressing for international control of atomic energy despite the deadlock with Soviet Russia over the issue.

Harnessing the atom remains a paramount problem of humanity, said Secretary of State Marshall. "Sham control," he added, "is worse that none."

A new publication by the state department, entitled "Policy at the Crossroads," reviews this country's futile efforts to devise a system of worldwide control.

* * *

Big Revenue Producers.

Liquor consumption has grown faster than population ever since repeal in 1933, the treasury reports.

Spending on whisky, it says, has risen more than the general income level since the war began.

It buttresses the spending assertion by showing that of every $100 left to consumers after taxes, $3.50 was spent on whisky in 1946 compared with $2.20 in prewar 1929.

These conclusions are in a 100-page Treasury analysis for Congress of federal taxes on alcoholic beverages.

It points out that the whisky tax of $9 on each 100-proof gallon is the government's biggest revenue raiser in the excise tax field.

* * *

World's Biggest Bridge.

The City of New York asked the War Department this week for permission to build the world's largest suspension bridge.

The proposed bride would span the New York Harbor Narrows and connect Brooklyn and Staten Island. It would cost 75 million dollars, take at least three years to build and its center span of 4,620 feet would be 237 feet above the water — equivalent to the height of a 22-story building.

* * *

Ancient America.

Two interesting archeological finds were reported this week. A carving, found on the shores of Mexico's prehistoric Lake Texcoco, is estimated to be 20,000 years old. Evidence of a 3,000 to 10,000-year-old Pinto culture house has been unearthed at a prehistoric desert campsite 180 miles northeast of Los Angeles.

The carving is about 10,000 years older than the Tepexpan Man whose discovery won international recognition for Dr. Helmuth de Terra, Viking Fund anthropologist.

Abroad

Berlin Powderkeg.

Mounting tension over Berlin overshadowed the Hague parley where Britain, France and the Benelux countries were to set up military cooperation among the western powers.

The British press increasingly began to discuss preparedness measures and one newspaper took the Labor government to task for not having rushed civilian defense projects many months ago.

Washington, London and Paris addressed stiff protests on the blockade directly to Moscow. The Kremlin offered to hold a four-power conference on the whole German question, but the west replied that it would not negotiate while the blockade is in effect.

* * *

Russian Production.

The Soviet planning commission reported this week that Russian production increased 24 per cent during the second quarter of 1948 over the same period last year.

A special communique revealed that only one industrial ministry failed to meet its second quarter quota—railroads by 1 per cent and river transport by 3 per cent.

Total industrial production topped its quota by 6 per cent, the announcement said.

While it gave no percentages, the commission said this year's crops would better last year's excellent harvest.

In Short

Stoned: To death, an American tourist, in Cairo by Arab mobs, following raids on the Egyptian capital by Israeli bombing planes.

Farmer's Diary

Weeds Have Beauty

By CALVIN A. BYERS

ONE of the interesting parts of our farm is a natural hedge bracing the bank against our gravel road. Here, for 10 years, Nature has had no interference. The result is a dense tangle of wild vines, undergrowth and graceful weeds, where pheasants nest and all sorts of wild life finds shelter.

Here the wild cotton entices the ranging bumblebee, and he rudely mauls the tantalizing ball of bloom to drain the nectar, yet for his visit the plant yields richer perfume, and picturesque seed pods will tilt and burst after frost with blobs of down drifting away upon the wind.

Here a wild bee grazes within the white lace umbel of the wild carrot, the pungent ditney spreads its streaming fringes, the tender tendrils of the greenbrier woo every promising support, and when securely entwined the woody wickered vines can never be unloosened.

Thrifty braided ropes of bittersweet form dense canopies of leaves so thick that the littered floor beneath is damp and cool. The struggle for sunlight and rain and dew is always on. A person wonders how, from that same soil, so many plant odors and distinctive individualities can be produced.

Continuing on from where the sassafras shoots and the elders and the hazels stop, perennial peas riot along the road's edge to the end of our lawn.

Untended, they yield pleasure to everyone who passes. One fall I buried a few pods of seed in the opposite road bank. Now flecks of color begin to show there, too.

Along this natural hedge, windblown seeds fall and dustings of gravel wash down after every rain. Beneath the thicket when cool fall days arrive, rabbits, quail and pheasants find ready food, for the terminal buds and seeds stop here. Here I saw the wood thrush hide and heard him sing; the cuckoo called before rain; at evening the squatting whippoorwill repeated his plaintive nocturnal call 60 times before stopping for breath.

It is possible to worry one's life away clipping hedges and lawns so that every blade of grass, every leaf, looks the same length. It assists many people to devote much time and strength to maintaining neat artificiality about their premises. Weeds get some people down. Yet weeds are about the most natural and beautiful and vigorous plants that grow. It seems too bad not to use and enjoy what just "grows wild."

Children Are People

By ELSIE ROBINSON

GRANDMA vows she "never heard such nonsense in all her born days."

"The very idea of apologizing to a child because you made a mistake! What will these modern mothers think up next?"

But daughter-in-law Mildred sticks to her guns and insists that a child has as much right to courteous treatment as any adult. And I for one agree with Mildred.

Why shouldn't a parent apologize if he or she is in the wrong? Children are people and deserve as much consideration as older persons. It is no crime for a child to disagree with his parent's ideas. To the contrary, it is criminal for a parent to try to force his ideas upon a child.

Moreover, a child has a right to state his views and defend them stoutly, providing he does so politely. A child's whole mental life is based on such argument. Lacking it, he might as well be a half-wit.

* * *

A PARENT has no more right to shout at a child or strike him or call him abusive names than he would a complete stranger. The stranger would resent such treatment furiously and a child has an equal right to expect an apology or retraction. There is no impudence in a child's argument with a parent. When it comes to the Bill of Rights in the domestic world, it's a case of 50-50.

One hears many fanatical explanations of so-called juvenile delinquency. As a matter of fact much delinquency is simply a reflection of rudeness and unfairness on the part of parents.

If we treated our fellow workers and customers as we treat our children we'd soon be jailed or go bankrupt. Why shouldn't a child lose his temper if his father exercises no self-control and his mother squabbles like a fish wife?

It isn't enough to provide a child with food and clothing and shelter. It isn't even enough to love him sincerely. Above all else he craves the respect to which he is entitled as a person—the courtesy which is the prerogative of every human being, yet which we so often deny him.

Stop and think it over. Just how good are your manners within the family circle? How do they compare with your treatment of a visiting guest?

Suppose his honor the judge stepped down from the bench. Would you alter your technique with Jimmy? Or would you treat him like some unwelcome little mongrel?

Juvenile courts by all means; but let them begin at the kitchen sink or the family dinner table.

Lawyer Lauds New Party Aims, But Lacks Time to Speak Piece

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—The white-haired old corporation attorney, mad at both the Republicans and the Democrats, had come to hit the sawdust trail for Henry Wallace.

Elegant in a white sharkskin suit and blue tie, 75-year-old Arthur Dun of New York City looked a little out of place as he waited to appear before the last public hearing of the new party's platform committee.

There were more than a score there to testify for causes, old and new.

Among them were a Negro nurse, a white-collar union official, a farmer, an Illinois patent attorney, a Jewish member of Palestine's extremist Stern group, an Irish seaman, writer Muriel Draper, and Rep Vito Marcantonio, who wanted a plank put in the platform calling for Puerto Rican independence.

★

They spoke at such length that Mrs. Elinor Gimbel, acting as platform secretary, warned:

"If we keep on like this we'll be here until tomorrow. From now on we'll have to limit each speaker to five minutes."

The first victim of the ruling was the elderly corporation lawyer.

"I have been voting for 54 years," Dun began. "I first voted back in 1894 when I was an undergraduate at Princeton. I always voted Republican until 1932. I guess I just didn't know any better."

The small audience of 75 in the ballroom of convention hall whooped lustily. Corporation lawyers are rare here.

"My mother was a member of the slave-holding aristocracy of Virginia," Dun continued. "But my hobby now is fighting the poll tax."

The spectators cheered again, and the corporation attorney bowed graciously.

He then began reading the text of his statement. It called upon Congress to enforce the second section of the fourteenth amendment, "which requires that if a state abridges the right to vote in any way, the number of representatives in Congress from such state must be reduced proportionately.

"Because of failure of Congress to enforce this provision," Dun said, "the seven poll tax states in the South have 69 members in the House of Representatives, whereas they are entitled to but 28."

Dun said he was sure that the southern states would rather remove the poll tax or other limitations on voting rather than have their membership in Congress reduced.

"Furthermore—" he read on, and when Mrs. Gimbel interrupted him:

"Time! Your time is up."

★

"But this is the most important thing in the country today," protested the old attorney. "If this plan is carried out, no civil rights legislation will be required."

"I'm sorry," murmured Mrs. Gimbel.

"I'm sorry, too," said Dun sadly. He folded his manuscript and walked back to his seat.

Jersey Swamp Eradication Took Sting Out of Life In Manhattan

MORALS, MANHATTAN AND MOSQUITOES—There was the matter of two vice-squad dicks, each of whom owned a couple of flat buildings, squabbling in the stationhouse over some shakedowns above and beyond the call of duty. Said Jim, with finality: "You've never heard my honesty questioned!" Replied Andy: "I've never even heard it mentioned!"

★

Comes now William Forrer, a book-reviewer for the esteemed Detroit Free Press, to question what a reporter holds most precious—his veracity. Perhaps he never heard of mine, or Lee Mortimer's, though he classifies us as "two of Manhattan's better known newspapermen." This in a favorable assay of our new book, "New York, Confidential." Then, in his concluding paragraph he writes:

"It sounds pretty accurate on most counts to this reviewer, though he was put on his guard very early. The third line of Page 1 says Manhattan never has a mosquito. None are based there, but nuisance raiders come over from New Jersey airstrips almost nightly. Messrs. Lait and Mortimer doubtless have seen them, but erroneously identified them as transient B-29s. It's an easy mistake to make."

★

Out of 316 pages, in which we slash around and draw blood on controversial topics of morals, manners, felonies, follies, politics, pecadillos, society, sociology and sex, he challenges us before we take our first deep breath, and on the issue of mosquitoes in Manhattan.

It may be incredible to a Detroiter, but Manhattan is and long has been free of these dipteral pests, the culcidae, which used to swoop down in the trillions when I was a lad, but which have been eradicated since the Jersey swamp-lands where they bred have been immobilized.

We have our share of pests. But not on the wing. In Chicago screendoors and windows are required by the sanitary ordinances. In Manhattan they are virtually unknown.

★

My dear Mr. Forrer—I haven't seen a mosquito on this island in years. When I was a kid, I was welts from curls to tootsies. That was before B-29s were a common sight.

In those days we never mistook mosquitoes for aerial bombers. We thought they were flying sword-fish. It was reported that they carried off babies and they were suspected when some sheep were missed from the Central Park meadow. It was well known that the Jersey skeeters could scuttle a scow. A full-grown one could drill through a safe.

But all that was in the era of Boss Big Tim Sullivan and the Hudson Dusters. It is believed the Democratic machine voted the male mosquitoes, there being no equal suffrage then.

★

I take full responsibility for the statement that we have no more mosquitoes than we have buffaloes (or is it buffali?). Partner Mortimer lives in nightclubs, where the beasts couldn't get by the velvet ropes without tipping the head-waiters. But, as a penthouse-dweller, I have been exposed to anything with wings except angels. The most ferocious carnivera in my life have been moths. But they passed me swiftly, on the hunt for my tuxedo.

Gov. Herbert Lauds Work Of Police

'Speak for Every Citizen,' He Says

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Gov. Thomas J. Herbert today commended Ohio law enforcement officers for the capture of Robert M. Daniels and the fatal shooting of John C. West.

"I am sure I speak for every citizen of Ohio commending each and every one of the officers who had a part in ending this reign of terror with the killing of John West and the capture of Robert Daniels," the governor said in a statement.

"Especially do I wish to compliment Col. George Mingle of the state highway patrol for his able direction of what has been the greatest manhunt in the history of Ohio."

The full resources of the state's law enforcement agencies were thrown into the hunt for Daniels and West following the brutal murders of James Smith, 25, Seneca county farmer, and Orrville Taylor, Niles, Mich., truck driver, near Tiffin early yesterday.

70 PATROL CRUISERS

The hunt was directed from state highway patrol central headquarters here under the personal supervision of Col. Mingle.

Between 70 and 100 patrol cruisers, each manned by at least two men, were ordered into the northwestern section of the state shortly after the double slaying.

More than 200 of the patrol's 336 men were thrown into the hunt, with a skeleton force left to police and the balance of the state.

Every maintenance department of the state highway department in a 35-county area also was called on duty to aid in searching for the killers. Mingle also enlisted the aid of railroad detectives throughout the state and commercial radio stations were requested to broadcast descriptions of West and Daniels.

INDIANA HELPS, TOO

Col. Mingle asked the Indiana highway patrol to guard Ohio's west boundaries, and West Virginia police were alerted and guards were posted at all bridges leading out of Ohio across the Ohio river.

Each patrol center in the state notified what Mingle termed their "close contacts," putting an additional 750 persons into the search.

Patrol stations in a 30-mile radius of Tiffin contacted every telephone subscriber to be on the watch for the two men. Road blocks were set up on the No. 1 perimeter, an imaginary circle on Ohio's map within a 50-mile radius of Tiffin.

A secondary perimeter was established 20 miles beyond this first line, running through such cities as Elyria, Lima and Wauseon. Still a third circle was set up beyond these lines. Its outer edge was about 90 miles from Tiffin.

Veteran officers at the patrol's central headquarters here said it was beyond a doubt the greatest manhunt in Ohio's history, and one of the greatest in national annals.

Neighbors Foil Tragedy

Call Police When Man Goes Berserk

ASHLAND — Quick action by neighbors averted a possible tragedy at midnight yesterday when a 39-year-old Goodman court father threatened to kill his wife and three children with a .16 gauge shotgun.

The man was held today at Ashland city jail pending medical examination.

Neighbors summoned the police when the screams of the wife woke them. By the time officers arrived the wife had escaped from the first floor of the home where the father had barricaded himself in the kitchen, threatening to "kill anyone who tries to get me." Police expressed the belief he was mentally unbalanced.

The three small children, huddled in an upstairs bedroom, were carried to safety by Police Chief Harry L. Smith who climbed on to a porch roof and pulled them through a window.

Efforts of officers to rout the father by tear gas failed until 2 a. m. when the father called out that he'd surrender if "someone comes and gets me." Chief Smith answered the call and apprehended the man.

Authorities said the father denied any knowledge of the early morning occurrence today at breakfast.

Flash Flood Danger Ends

LANCASTER — (AP) — Most of the 2,000 families menaced by Thursday's flash flood had returned to their homes last night.

About 20 families were still sheltered in a Red Cross station set up in the Sherman armory in downtown Lancaster and at the Salvation Army center. The Red Cross canteen in West Lancaster served food to about 500 persons yesterday.

Authorities estimated total flood damage at more than $2,001,000.

All roads out of Lancaster were open except U. S. Route 22 east of the city.

In Columbus, Adjutant General Chester W. Goble said the National Guard company ordered to patrol duty early yesterday by Gov. Thomas J. Herbert would remain on guard.

Lucas Man Injured

William Sweezie of Lucas was injured yesterday while working on a construction job near Youngstown. Sweezie, an employe of the John Hill Construction company of Mansfield, is superintendent of a crew working on a bridge over route 18 near Youngstown.

Sweezie was working in a hole laying sheeting when the accident occurred. The sheeting hit a plank, and the plank fell on Sweezie, knocking him down.

He is in St. Elizabeth hospital in Youngstown where his condition is reported to be "fairly good."

35 Injured In Collision

CIMARRON, Kan.—(U.P.)—Thirty-five persons were injured in the collision of a Santa Fe Trailways bus and a gasoline transport truck four miles west of here early today.

The accident occurred as the driver of the gasoline truck stopped on the highway to fight a fire in the truck. He said he did not have time to place a flare.

All the injured were passengers on the bus. They were rushed to hospitals in Dodge City and Garden City. Names of the victims were not available immediately. Some were in serious condition.

The bus crashed into the transport, knocking it across a ditch into a telephone pole, police said. The driver of the truck was not injured. Only one passenger on the bus escaped injury.

Boy, 12, Accidentally

Gordon Zahner, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Zahner, 563 Highland avenue, was in General hospital today recovering from a freak accident which happened Friday about 9 a. m. while he was riding on the Park avenue east road toward Mifflin lake.

Zahner was rushed to General hospital and operated on at 10 a. m. The piece of metal was extracted from the left side of his chest where it had lodged close to his lung.

Hospital authorities said today his condition was good. Mrs. Zahner said she thought her son would be released this evening.

Young Zahner will enter Johnny Appleseed junior high this next fall as a seventh grade pupil. He had been a student at Brinkerhoff this past year.

Plan Change Discussed

Richland County T. B. Building commission board members met early today in the Richland county commissioners office to discuss a recommendation for change in construction plans.

The recommendation was made to the commission board by Architect Herbert S. Jones, who advised them on a change in the building's window construction.

The change called for intermediate type combination steel casement windows which will save the county $4,366.

The recommendation was made into a motion and passed by the T. B. commission board at the meeting, and Dr. John S. Hattery, commission board chairman, presided.

Takes Clothes, Leaves Cash

The thief who broke into the car of William C. Browning, 431 Fourth avenue last night apparently wasn't interested in money.

He opened the unlocked door of the car, took two dresses valued at $25 from the shelf in front of the rear window and some tools from the glove compartment, but overlooked the $8 in cash that was inside a purse on top of the dresses.

The thefts occurred between midnight and 1:45 a. m. today while Browning's car was parked in front of an Orange street cafe.

Lid Lifted On Secret Research

Commission Gives Report

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The atomic energy commission lifted the secrecy lid on the recent Eniwetok atoll tests just a crack today and let this much information out:

1. The "three atomic weapons of new and improved design" tested at the super-secret proving grounds in the Marshall islands were bombs — not non-explosive weapons, as had been widely speculated.

2. They proved that "the position of the United States in the field of atomic weapons has been substantially improved."

In its fourth semi-anual report to Congress, the commission had a great deal to say about peaceful uses for atomic energy, although it added:

"We do not see how it would be possible under the most favorable circumstances to have any considerable portion of the present power supply of the world replaced by nuclear fuel before the expiration of 20 years."

The report indicated that the recent Pacific tests were aimed at getting greater explosive force out of atomic bombs. Eniwetok scientists, said the commission were looking for the answers to "specific questions arising in connection with the instantaneous release of nuclear energy for its explosive effect."

The atomic officials hinted also that the tests did considerable damage to the atoll. The proving ground now is "being reconditioned and placed in standby status for further use," they said.

ISOTOPES, USEFUL

As for peacetime uses of atomic energy, the commission had this to say:

"Radio-Isotopes, by-products of the atomic bomb," constitute the first great contribution of the development of atomic energy to peacetime welfare."

These isotopes, used to trace elements coursing through the bodies of humans and animals and also to treat some diseases directly, "are building up, bit by bit, a new understanding of the dynamic processes of life." The report declared, adding:

"All told, more than 1,000 different isotope projects are being conducted today, and they deal, in one way or another, with every important aspect of the physical welfare of mankind."

These atomic by-products, the commission said, are being used for everything from measuring the friction on piston rings to treating goiter.

Fall From Car Hurts 2

Mrs. John Bissman, 312 West Third street, and daughter, Betty, two and a half, were recuperating today in Norwalk hospital from numerous cuts and bruises received Wednesday in an auto accident between Milan and Norwalk.

Mrs. Bissman and her daughter were returning home in the family car driven by Bissman when the accident occurred. They had been spending the day at Chaska Beach as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Siegenthaler, also of Mansfield.

Betty fell out of the car when the door against which she had been leaning suddenly opened. Mrs. Bissman, in an attempt to catch her daughter, also fell out of the car to the highway.

Both were badly bruised and cut.

At the Norwalk hospital today their condition was reported as good. It is expected they will be released within the next few days.

U. S. Cost-of-Living Index Spirals to All-Time Record

Biggest Hike Recorded On Food Prices

Average Soars To New Level

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The cost-of-living index struck an all-time high on June 15, with food prices reaching record-shattering levels, the bureau of labor statistics reported Friday.

The index representing retail prices of goods and services bought by moderate income families in large cities, hit 171.7 per cent of the 1935-1939 average.

The BLS index on living costs, covering the period up to June 15, usually runs about five weeks behind the current price levels. It takes this much time to assemble price data and measure the impact on the family budget.

Wholesale prices, which hit an all-time high during the week ended July 17, are reported almost up-to-date. It will be more than a month before the impact of the new wholesale peak is recorded in retail prices generally.

The new consumers price index —formerly known as the cost of living index—is 9.3 per cent higher than a year ago. It is 28.8 per cent above that of June, 1946, when price controls generally were abandoned, and 74.1 per cent above the August, 1939, level.

On V-J day, in August, 1945, the same index was registered at 129.3 per cent of the 1935-39 average, compared with 171.7 per cent last month.

FOOD INCREASE EXTREME

Retail food prices advanced between May 15 and June 15 by 1.5 per cent. The food index rose to 214.1 per cent.

Retail prices generally rose 0.7 per cent between mid-May and mid-June.

The index figures generally has been climbing snce the end of war hostilities.

They have set records in 19 months since November, 1946, when they first edged past the World War I peak reached in May, 1920.

In Friday's index for figures through June 15, fuel and house furnishings were up 0.6 per cent. Rents rose 0.3 per cent. Prices of miscellaneous commodities and services remained unchanged as a group. Apparel prices declined 0.3 per cent.

The food index is now 2.1 per cent higher than in January, 1948, prior to the break in commodity market prices. The index is 12.4 per cent higher than a year ago and 47 per cent above June, 1946. It is almost 18 per cent above the peak reached after World War I in June, 1920.

The big reason for the food climb was the increase of 5.5 per cent in meat prices and 5.0 per cent in eggs.

Beef, veal and lamb prices averaged 7 per cent higher than on May 15. Pork cuts were up 2 per cent and chicken prices increased 2.7 per cent. The meat and egg boosts are much greater than the average seasonal increase, the bureau said.

The fats and oils group advanced 2 per cent from mid-May. Oleomargarine was up 4 per cent, shortening 3.2 per cent, salad dressing 1.6 per cent and lard 0.2 per cent higher.

Dairy products rose fractionally. Milk and cheese increases more than offset a drop in butter.

Cereal and bakery products and coffee were up fractionally. Fruits and vegetables as a group declined 1.4 per cent with lower prices for fresh vegetables offsetting increases for fresh fruits, sweet potatoes and canned goods.

Daniels to Face Trial In Richland

county, described the move as a "precautionary measure." Walters said he did not expect mob violence against Daniels, describing the crowds which milled around the Van Wert jail as orderly. Van Wert is about 25 miles north of Celina.

EXTRA GUARD

An extra guard was placed at the jail last night after Daniels arrived under heavy armed guard about 6:30 p. m.

There was no commotion during the night and Daniels was said to have slept well, snoring loudly most of the time. He breakfasted at 8 a. m. today on toast and coffee.

After Daniels was captured yesterday morning six miles east of Van Wert and his partner-in-crime, John C. West, 24, was killed, authorities placed at six the murders left in the killers' wake. They were:

1— Earl C. Ambrose, Columbus tavern owner. Daniels said yesterday Ambrose was killed by West July 9.

2—John E. Niebel, 50, superintendent of the 1,600-acre Ohio State Reformatory farm at Mansfield, his wife, Nolana, 51, and their daughter, Phyllis, 20. Regarding these killings, Daniels boasted before a crowd of several hundred persons gathered before Van Wert county jail, "Give me credit for all the Niebels."

3—James J. Smith, 26, a Seneca county farmer. Daniels said Smith was slain early yesterday when "we went out to get a car." His wife Rita, 24, escaped.

4—Orville Taylor, 25, of Niles, Mich., driver of the Auto transport truck in which West and Daniels were riding when they were captured. Daniels gave West "credit" for the truck-driver's death.

CLEARED IN ONE CASE

The murder of Frank Krech, Flat Rock, Mich., tourist camp operator, originally thought to have been committed by the West-Daniels team, was denied by Daniels.

Captain Lawrence Meehan, of the Michigan State Police, said in Detroit that detectives who talkd with Daniels were convinced he had nothing to do with the Flat Rock murder.

Daniels stood on the steps of the Van Wert county jail yesterday afternoon, facing 20 or 30 newspaper reporters and photographers and in back of them, a gaping-mouthed crowd of several hundred. Behind Daniels were law enforcement officials of Richland, Seneca, and Van Wert counties.

BOASTFUL STORY

He told in simple, plain words of what he seemed to consider as his accomplishments.

"We planned to beat the hell out of him," Daniels said in reply to a question of the Niebel murders.

"If they'd given us just a little while longer we'd have wiped all of them out—all those s.o.b.'s at the reformatory."

Daniels, giving a good appearance in a freshly-pressed, brown, glen-plaid double-breasted suit, held his head high before the crowd. When he wasn't talking he sneered at his captors.

News-Journal reporter, Paul Kellan asked him if he shot the Niebels in the back as they walked into the cornfield. Daniels wheeled, looked the reporter straight in the eye. As nearly as his handcuffed wrists would permit, he gesticulated at himself and replied vehemently:

"I never shoot people in the back . . . it's against my principles."

SIGNS CONFESSION

His spontaneous confession before the press and the crowd, however, did not exactly follow the signed confession extracted from the ex-convict last night.

Daniels signed the full confession last night. With a final show of bravado, he fixed his name with a flourish to a four-page history of crime and murder.

"I'll get the chair for that," he said. "You can't kid me. I'll burn for my part. The jig is up."

According to Richland county Prosecuting Attorney Theodore Lutz he told this story:

"Johnny (West) and I planned this for three or four months. We wanted to beat hell out of him (Niebel), and if they'd given me a little more time, we'd have wiped em all out, those — — — at the reformatory.

"We went to the reformatory the other day to get Red Phillips (a guard), but we couldn't find them. (Earlier he had used the name 'Red' Harris.)

"We killed the Niebels about 1:30 a. m. I went to the door, which Niebel answered, and told him our car was broken down and asked if I could use the phone. He let me in, and I covered him with my gun. Then Johnny came in and covered him while I went upstairs and got the women.

"They were fully clothed, and we drove right through Mansfield with them. We made them undress in the car, and throw their clothes out along the road.

"We finally got to the corn field, and told them to walk in. There was no criminal attack on the women, and we didn't slug anybody. He (Niebel) told the others not to offer any resistance, and they didn't.

LINED THEM UP

"I told them to line up. I shot him, then the girl and the woman.

"I had a blackjack and only meant to beat hell out of them. On the spur of the moment, I changed my mind about the blackjack and let them have it. I lined them up and said, 'You've got three minutes to get right with the Lord.'

"He (Niebel) talked tough.

"While I was in the reformatory Niebel treated me like a rat. Once he slugged me.

"Screws and guards are nothing but rats. If I hadn't been caught sleeping this morning, I'd have killed all those cops."

West, Prosecutor Lutz quoted Daniels as saying, killed James Smith, 25-year-old Seneca county farmer, Thursday night, and less than an hour later shot and killed Orville Taylor, 25, of Niles, Mich., driver of the automobile transport truck in which the two were riding when trapped.

WENT TO SHOW

Smith was returning to his farm home with his wife, Rita, 24, from a visit in Tiffin when halted by the killers and shot through the head. Taylor, father of four young children, was enroute to Welch, W. Va., with a load of automobiles from Flint, Mich.

Daniels told the story of the Smith and Taylor killings in these words:

"We went out to hunt a car. We saw a show in a park in Tiffin Thursday night. We went to a root beer place and stopped a car with a woman in it.

"Then this fellow (Smith) and his wife pulled in. They looked like they had a better car."

Daniels said he and West trailed the Smith car for several miles and then flagged it down with a flashlight. He said West forced Smith out of the car and took him up a road a short distance away.

"I just got the right hand door open (on the Smith car) when I heard a shot," Daniels continued. "I didn't know whether Johnny got it or this guy got it."

"I pushed the woman into the back seat and Johnny drove up alongside. She got out the right door and I got out the left door and Johnny drove me off.

"He went to the state park when this truck was parked.

"I walked to the door and told him (Orville Taylor) to get out. He was sleeping. He got out and Johnny said 'I'll take care of him.' He marched him to the bushes and shot him twice."

WEST DRIVES

Daniels said he was unable to drive the truck, and West drove it back south through Tiffin and turned west on U. S. Route 224. He said they stopped at a roadside park midway between Tiffin and Van Wert and he climbed into the first car on top of the truck and went to sleep.

"I stayed up there, because it was less suspicious with one man in the cab than with two. When I looked up the sheriff (Roy Shaffer of Van Wert county) had a gun in my face."

Before giving details of the Manstield and Tiffin slayings, Daniels told Lutz that West fired the shots that killed Columbus tavern operator Earl Ambrose during a holdup attempt in Ambrose's tavern shortly before midnight July 9. Daniels said he himself fired the shot that struck Mrs. Ruth McBurney, 44, Columbus, who was seated in a booth in the tavern. Mrs. McBurney was critically wounded.

$8,000 HOLDUP

Daniels said that just prior to the Ambrose killing in Columbus, he and West obtained $8,000 in another holdup. Sheriff's deputies said the two had only $1,300 between them when captured yesterday.

Daniels said he and West left Ohio after the Ambrose killing and drove to St. Louis where they "saw the sights and did the town."

"I even played my guitar and sang in a tavern band there for a while," he added.

From St. Louis the pair went to Michigan. It was while in that state that they decided to return to Mansfield and "take care" of one of the guards, Daniels said.

The statement Daniels signed last night did not agree entirely with his verbal statements to reporters earlier in the day.

Some of the discrepancies were attributed to the fact that questions were being fired from all sides, sometimes faster than Daniels could answer them.

Reporters from Mansfield, Tiffin, Columbus and Michigan each wanted to know about the crimes committed in their particular areas. Other reporters wanted to know everything.

Despite pleas of deputies to "take it easy on the guy," Daniels for the most part seemed to enjoy the attention he received.

As he stepped to the porch with flash bulbs firing from all sides in true big city style, a smug, complacent smile forced it's way across his face as much as to say, "So I'm the one you really want to see."

LEFT CLOTHES IN PARK

One statement Daniels made verbally was that he and West had forced the Niebels to undress in the car and throw their clothes out long the road to the cornfield where they were killed. Later statements attributed to Daniels were that the clothes were removed in the cornfield and finally deposited by the killers in an Akron park. This might account for the failure of the clothes being found near Mansfield.

Explaining later why he had talked so freely to police officers and reporters, Daniels stated, "I'm going to burn and it wouldn't do me any good to lie."

The smirking, natty killer contended that, while serving a robbery term at the reformatory, he worked on the farm where Niebel was superintendent. He complained that he "had to pick potaties under a boiling sun" while "guards stood over me with clubs."

As an apparent afterthought, he maintained that he could show the skeleton of a prisoner who had been beaten to death by guards. The skeleton, he insisted, was "still on the grounds."

"They sent me up there to reform me," Daniels said bitterly. "They just made me worse. If I have anything to say, it is all against the Mansfield reformatory.

"You know when a guy takes you and puts you in a potato field picking up spuds, and it is about 110 in the shade, and they stand over you with a club, and every time you stop he lugs you in the head with it, and you do that about four years, that doesn't help you."

Asked if he felt that the Niebel family slayings were justified, Daniels answered:

"Well, I wasn't sorry about it when I read it in the papers."

Late OSR Psychiatrist's Report Called West 'Moron'

"rather apathetic emotional reaction," and while he possessed "good insight, his judgment has been rather unstable."

So West, who had left school in the sixth grade, was paroled April 1, 1948.

TWO REPORTS

West Virginia probation officers later reported on West twice, the last time on July 8. They said: "This parolee who is working on his mother's farm is satisfactory in every respect. Recommend that parole be continued."

The case of Daniels is different in many respects.

He was received at the reformatory Jan. 28, 1944, to serve one to 25 years for unarmed robbery in Buchanan in Pike county. When his case came up for parole on Dec. 7, 1944, investigators reported they had found Daniels' violation actually had been armed robbery for which the sentence is 10 to 25 years.

Because of this new information and because he had served time in the Lancaster Boys Industrial school in 1941 for automobile theft, Daniels' case was continued to Dec. 12, 1946.

In October, 1945, he escaped from Mansfield and although he surrendered voluntarily at Columbus, the commission postponed his hearing to Aug. 6. 1947.

THOROUGH REVIEW

Again a thorough review of the inmate was made. Dr. Fowler said Daniels was "cooperative and friendly, had a good attitude and a high average intelligence." But he added that Daniels had "psychopathic tendencies."

In spite of this last statement the psychiatrist said, "I see no reason why this inmate should not be eligible for a parole."

The parole was granted effective Sept. 25, 1947.

Probation officers apparently never watched Daniels, however. On Jan. 30 Glen L. Klopfenstein, head of the parole bureau, asked a subordinate for a report. He asked again on March 1, April 2, May 7, June 8, and July 8. The probation officer, who had the staggering load of more than 300 Columbus cases under his supervision, finally got around to making his report on July 10, the date of the Earl C. Ambrose killing in Columbus.

He advised his chief, "Parents advise parole chief the boy left home and was going downtown to hive. He had been working for his father."

This was the last attention paid to either boy until the bloodiest criminal trail ever left in Ohio ended near Van Wert yesterday.

IN MEMORY of my dear husband, Edgar Edwin Kintz, who died two years ago today, July 24, 1946. Friends may think the wound is healed, but little do they know the sorrow that within my heart is concealed. Mrs Rose M Kintz

GEORGE SCHNEITER, chairman of the PGA tournament committee, figures that the top-flight pro golfers can make $50,000 a year. . . . But he says only five or six reach that figure. . . . Schneiter, a pretty fair pro himself, breaks it down this way. . . . (1) He represents a club as its playing professional, receiving probably $5,000 a year. . . . (2) A sporting goods company designs golf clubs with his name on them. He receives a royalty on all sales. From this source he will get at least $10,000 a year. This company also will double his prize money in his tournament triumphs. . . . (3) He will appear in exhibitions paying him $500 each and will earn probably $7,000 in a year doing that. . . . (4) He will represent a sporting goods company for about $5,000 a year. . . . (5) Through his golfing prominence he will make business contacts that will be profitable. Byron Nelson, who is an official in an umbrella company, and Harold McSpaden and his interest in a fabrics concern are examples. . . . (6) Endorsements of this and that product run from $500 to $10,000. . . . The sources do not include such things as an occasional motion picture, appearance money at tournaments and other items that add up.

LUTHER McCALLY, the Hot Stove league vice-president, dropped us a card today. . . . Braggin' a bit that he was seeing the Cards and Giants in action in St. Louis. . . . The Cincinnati Reds have had only three groundskeepers since the team joined the National league in 1876. . . . Matty Schwab, the present groundkeeper, inherited the job from his father in 1903. . . . There have been 84 no-hit games pitched in the major leagues since the turn of the century. . . . Don Black, Bob Lemon and Bobby Feller of Cleveland are in the group.

Three Golf Stars Miss Par By One At Westbrook

Al Hager, Bob Moorhead and Bill Black all missed par by one stroke as they fired a trio of 37's in the Westbrook Country club league yesterday. Moorhead and Hager played each other to a tie while Black edged Carl Wiseman who had 38.

Bart Haley also fired a 38 followed by 39's by M. D. Ward jr., and Howard Hosler.

Williams Gets 2 Hits On Return

By JACK HAND
(AP Sports Writer)

Now that Joe McCarthy has found some pitching, the Boston Red Sox look like the roughest club in the American league.

It used to be an occasion for a 24-gun salute when a Sox hurler went the route. Now they go nine innings almost every day.

Ted Williams, who missed 15 games due to a torn rib cartilage, returned to the lineup yesterday and immediately made known his presence. He collected two hits, including a double with the bases full, to back up Mickey Harris' five-hit job on Chicago for a rollicking 13-1 romp.

This cleared the stage for the most important series of the year at Fenway park as Cleveland comes in for a doubleheader today and a single tomorrow. It's possible for the Red Sox to take over first place before Monday's open date.

RAINED OUT

The Indians, buffeted by the Yanks in New York where they dropped two of three, were rained out of yesterday's scheduled stadium finale. Consequently they got to Boston with a half game lead on Philadelphia and 1½ over the Sox.

Rain helped the Athletics last night. They were trailing the St. Louis Browns 6-0 in the third inning when the game had to be postponed because of wet grounds and rain.

Detroit had a big inning at Washington, scoring seven in the fourth, to blast the Senators, 11-5. A triple by Pat Mullin, doubles by Jimmy Outlaw and George Kell and singles by Bo Swift, Johnny Lipon and Vic Wertz highlighted the attack that knocked out Mickey Haefner with his ninth loss.

The National league battle tightened a bit as Brooklyn knocked off Pittsburgh, 4-3, while the Boston Braves were losing to St. Louis, 7-5. As a result, the Braves lead was clipped to 5½ games.

Erv Palica, relieved by Hank Behrman in the eighth, assured the Brooks of their eighth victory in 10 starts since Burt Shotton replaced Leo Durocher as manager.

CARDS BLASTING

The Cardinals knocked out Johnny Sain, Boston's top winner, in a four-run third inning. They continued to blast Nels Potter for a total of 15 hits, including three each by Stan Musial, Enos Slaughter, Del Rice. Rookie Al Dark accounted for four of the 12 hits off Al Brazle.

Larry Jansen notched win No. 12, a fine five-hit shutout for New York over Chicago, 5-0. Johnny Mize's 23rd homer off Russ Meyer with Billy Rigney on base in the first started Jansen on his way. It was Mize's 280th homer in the majors.

The Philadelphia Phils made a triple play in the fourth inning of their 6-1 victory over Cincinnati. Robin Roberts hurled steady eight-hit ball for his fourth big league success. Howie Fox was the loser.

Players Vote On Penalties

ST. LOUIS —(INS)— Major league baseball players are voting on possible penalties to be assessed against their fellow athletes who miss future all-star games.

J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of the Sporting News, writes in a copyrighted article in the current issue of the paper that indications are that players missing the contest "unless injured, will be suspended either for one week or two weeks, and will be fined one week's or two weeks' pay."

Spink says the players' decision was made "because they felt their own pension plan, for which they had fought so hard and long, was in jeopardy."

2 Akron Athletes Named as Coaches

AKRON — (AP) — Jim Appleby and Felix Latona, two former Akron university athletes, have been named to fill coaching vacancies at Akron Central high school, Assistant Schools Superintendent N. G Fawcett reported today.

Latona will become head football coach and Appleby will direct the basketball team, replacing Ted Osborn, resigned.

Regula Blanks Mt. Vernon In League Conflict, 2-0

MT. VERNON—Bob Regula recovered his early season mastery last night as he held Stone's Grill of Mt. Vernon to two hits in pitching Mansfield Gorman-Rupp to a 2-0 victory. Regula fanned 13 and walked only one.

The victory was Gorman-Rupp's twelfth against two defeats in North Central Ohio Inter-City league play. Manager Nick Weber's team had dropped its two previous games to Willard and Marion.

Gorman-Rupp collected six base hits, including two-baggers by Pete Campbell and Al Baki and two singles by clean-up man Wayne Hough.

Still pressing the pace is E. J. Dutch Harrison, Little Rock, Ark., defending champion, with 134. The other member of the opening day front running quartet, calm Johnny Palmer, held on in the company of Herman Keiser, Springfield, Mo., and Bobby Locke, South Africa. They had 135's.

Pitching Duel Features Play In 'Kid' Ball

The Police and Eagles teams of the Junior league turned in one of the best pitching duels in the Hot Stove league program when they battled seven innings yesterday before Police pushed over a run to win, 1-0.

Lowell Hess, tiny Police right-hander, limited the Eagles to a single hit and struck out seven. Howell, Eagles pitcher, gave up only three safeties.

Yuncker Sports forfeited to the unbeaten Sons of Herman Colts in the only major league game on the schedule.

Women Swimmers Draw Tough Foes In Sprint Trials

LONDON — (UP) — Fate in the form of "the luck of the draw" today handed tough assignments to Ann Curtis, Marie Corridon and Brenda Helser—the three famed swimming sprint stars from the United States.

Each of the talented lasses was dealt a dangerous rival in opening heats in the women's 100-free style sprint at the Empire pool a week from today.

Miss Curtis, the tall, blond lovely record-breaker from the University of California, was matched against top-notcher Greta Anderson of Denmark. Miss Corridon, a New Yorker, was paired with Johanna Termuelsen of Holland while Miss Helser, brunnette from Los Angeles, was matched against Irm Schuhmacher of Holland.

The same luck, however, gave relatively easy assignments to the rest of the women swimmers and nearly all of the men. Both men and women teams are expected to dominate the pool competition.

Cocky Indians Invade Boston

BOSTON —(INS)— The Cleveland Indians, cocky and defiant, strode confidently into Beantown today and dared the Boston Red Sox to do their worst—or best.

The Indians haven't been out of first place in the American league since June 1, and they are determined they still will be on top at the conclusion of their three-game stay in Boston.

Rained out yesterday in New York, the Tribe was to meet Boston in a doubleheader today with anything liable to happen.

If the Bosox take two, the race will go into a virtual three-way tie between Cleveland, Boston and Philadelphia. A split would just about leave things where they started. Needless to say, a sweep for Cleveland would be a tremendous shot in the arm for the Tribe's pennant hopes.

Cleveland's record on the current swing is none-too-sensational compared with the Tribe's previous eastern jaunts. On their first trip, the Indians won six and lost four, and compiled an eight and three mark on the second swing.

So far this time, they have won six and lost five, and the Boston series will decide either the success or failure of the trip—and possibly spell victory or defeat for the Indians as far as the entire pennant-chase is concerned.

The Sox currently are red hot, sporting a nine-game win streak. Joe McCarthy named Jack Kramer and Mel Parnell to hurl for Boston in today's doubleheader in an effort to make it 11 in a row.

Manager Lou Boudreau of the Tribe was expected to counter with Bob Lemon and Sad Sam Zoldak.

Boudreau will use either Steve Gromek or Bob Muncrief in Sunday's single game.

After that, the Indians will come home—either the top squad in the league, or among the also-rans.

The Boston series tells the tale.

Steel Wages, Prices Move Up Together

Major Firms Fall In Line

PITTSBURGH—(UP)—Steel mill wages and steel prices are rising all along the line today.

Basic steel producers are getting into line behind the U. S. Steel corporation's higher wage and price pattern.

Already, announced price increases will raise the nation's steel bill $350,000,000 annually.

Some of the country's biggest producers hiked their prices after U. S. Steel coupled its nine per cent wage increase with an 11.4 per cent price boost.

Bethlehem Steel corporation, the second largest producer; Republic Steel corporation, the third; Armco Steel corporation, the fifth, and Great Lakes Steel company, joined the "big steel" price increase movement.

Steel wages have been boosted more than $93,000,000 for some 350,000 workers since last Friday when U. S. Steel dropped its anti-inflation, pay-freezing plan and granted a 13-cent hourly average increase to its 170,000 workers.

Inland Steel company of Chicago announced wage increases averaging approximately 13 cents an hour. A new contract granted raises ranging from 9½ cents an hour to 25½ cents for 13,800 employes in Indiana Harbor and Chicago Heights plants.

J. & L., Pittsburgh Steel and Sharon Steel signed wage agreements with the CIO United Steelworkers Wednesday. They provided the same increases granted by U. S. Steel. Armco granted 4,000 employes of its Butler, Pa., plant a 10 per cent, or 13-4-cents an hour, increase.

Previously, Bethlehem, Republic and National Steel company signed similar wage agreements, although National granted one cent more than the "big steel" pattern wage. Edgewater Steel company, Oakmont, Pa., also reached an agreement with the union on the pattern wage.

The price increase action began immediately after U. S. Steel effected its new prices averaging $9.34 a ton.

End of the Blood-Lust Trail In Pictures—

END OF THE ROAD—A fourteen-day spree through Ohio in which six were murdered came to an end yesterday morning for John C. West and Robert M. Daniels at this intersection of State Route 637 and U. S. Route 224, six miles east of Van Wert. Arrow at left shows where truck in which the two killers were riding was stopped. Cross shows where Sgt. Leonard Conn, of the Van Wert police department, was critically wounded by West. Before Conn went down, he fatally wounded West.

THE TRUCK—Curiosity seekers at Van Wert, who numbered in the hundreds, mill around the truck in which West and Daniels were captured. Car on the top of the driveaway is the one in which Daniels was riding while West drove. When spotted, Daniels shouted, "Don't shoot! Don't shoot! Just tell me what to do!" West answered with a volley of fire directed at Sgt. Leonard Conn.

"GIVE ME CREDIT"—Arrogant, yet willing to answer questions, Daniels, second from left, appeared before a crowd of newsmen and onlookers yesterday at Van Wert and demanded, "Give me credit for all the Niebels." Left to right are Sheriff Frank E. Robinson, of Richland county, Daniels, Sumner Walters, assistant prosecuting attorney, Van Wert county, F. Roy Shaffer, Van Wert county, and Theodore Lutz, Richland county prosecuting attorney.

TRAVELING MEN—This is the array of luggage taken from the stolen truck after the capture of the two killers. Although it was not immediately determined whether part of luggage belonged to some of the murder victims, Daniels and West were dressed well and dressed in clothes that fit, too, leading authorities to believe that the killers traveled comfortably. Harry Henry, deputy sheriff of Van Wert county, inspects one of the weapons also found in the truck.

ENOUGH FOR A SMALL ARMY—That was one comment heard from the crowd of onlookers as they gazed open-mouthed at the arsenal carried by the killers. One of the weapons found in the truck was identified as being stolen from the Niebel residence on the night of the murder here. Daniels said he used an old Mauser automatic for the Mansfield killings.—(Photos by Paul Kellam, N-J staffer)

Air Path To Berlin Expands

U. S. to Use More Planes

BERLIN —(INS)— Anglo-American planes—pledged to supply western Berlin "indefinitely"—defied Russian practice bombing and firing today to feed the encircled city.

Soviet harassment of the Allied airlift coincided with Russian renewal of the "currency war."

Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky, Red army commandant in Germany, ordered the issuance of new money for "greater Berlin" and the eastern zone of the Reich.

The announcement said that the money—known as "deutche marks"— will be the only legal tender for the Soviet occupation zone and "greater Berlin."

The Russian-adopted currency name is the same as that used by the western Allies for their money.

Despite the Soviet attempts to discourage the airlift, British and American airmen were primed today for an extended program of aerial transport.

According to Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor, the western powers intend to supply Berlin by air through the rigorous German winter and if need be, "indefinitely."

WILL BOOST TONNAGE

Clay said last night, prior to leaving Washington for Germany, that the daily tonnage of the airlife—currently about 2,500 tons—will be increased to about 4,500.

The stepup will be accomplished by substituting and adding the 4-engined C-54s to the present fleet composed largely of twin-engined C-47s.

The former can carry ten tons of cargo as against the 2½ tons of the C-47s. The increased flow will provide enough food for all Germans in the western zones of Berlin and enough fuel to allay serious hardship.

Yesterday's tonnage came to 2,531. The British landed 265 planes, nine more than the Americans.

In accusing the Russians of violating the air corridors, the RAF said the Soviet officials failed to report the incidents to the Berlin air safety center, and gave the British no prior notification.

The British said that both practice bombing and target firing are specifically prohibited by the four-power air agreement.

Bulletins

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Mrs. Eleanor Medill Patterson, publisher of the Washington Times-Herald, died today of a heart attack. Mrs. Patterson died during the forenoon while asleep at her country home, Dower House, in upper Marlboro, Md.

ST. PAUL, Minn. —(INS)— At least seven, and possibly 10, men were burned to death today in the head-on collision of a Minneapolis bound motor bus carrying a Duluth, Minn., baseball team and a truck loaded with dry ice.

Museum Gets N-J Spotlight For Sunday

Only a block from Central park is one of the finest museums in northcentral Ohio—yet few Mansfielders know of its existence. Sunday's News-Journal takes you on a tour of the little-known Richland county Historical museum.

Can the physically - handicapped have fun? You'll want to read an illustrated feature which describes how a group of Mansfield blind persons spent a week at Lake Erie.

Other features you won't want to miss include how a local store trims its display windows; a spry Mansfield oldster describing events of more than 80 years ago, and a host of Associated Press features from all over the world.

New Party Sets Stage For Wallace

Bases Campaign On Peace Bid

CONVENTION HALL, PHILADELPHIA— (AP) —Henry A. Wallace today becomes the presidential candidate of the newly-christened Progressive party—and his supporters said U. S. voters have a choice between "Wallace and war."

With his acceptance speech tonight, the former vice president and cabinet member formally tosses his hat into 1948's biggest political race.

Wallace will be battling President Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey on a platform his keynote speaker told cheering, singing and booing delegates is "what the people demand, and what the people shall have."

Keynoter Charles P. Howard, Iowa Negro editor, laid it on the line last night. He struck hard at both Republicans and Democrats, high prices, foreign policy, Congress, "Jim Crowism."

Urging America's "plain people" to join the fight against the old-line political parties, Howard said the choice was "Wallace or war."

And when Wallace accepts the Progressive party banner tonight in Shibe park, by his side will be Senator Glen Taylor, Idaho Democrat. Taylor left the ranks headed by President Truman to become the new party's number two man—he'll accept the Progressive vice-presidential nomination.

Back of the Wallace-Taylor ticket will be a national committee expected to be headed by former Gov. Elmer Benson of Minnesota. Also: a singing, crusading band of delegates who showed last night more vocal power per man—and woman—than the Republicans or Democrats earlier were able to register in Philadelphia's overworked and hot convention hall.

CHILDREN QUARANTINED

RAVENNA —(AP)— About 125 children at the Ravenna arsenal have been quarantined as a precautionary move against polio, Maj. Orloff Monghan announced today. The arsenal swimming pool also has been closed until further notice. A possible polio case has been reported at nearby Windham.

Widow In Line for Reward

N-J Picks Woman Who Gave Alarm

Mrs. Rita Smith, Tiffin, 25-year-old widow of one of the victims of kill-crazy John C. West and Robert M. Daniels, was nominated today to receive The News-Journal's $250 reward for information leading to the solution of the Niebel family massacre.

Since it was Mrs. Smith who spread the alarm resulting in the posse capture of the mad dog killers after her own husband had been killed, editors of The News-Journal decided this morning that she is the most logical candidate to receive the newspaper's reward.

The News-Journal had offered $250 reward for information to this newspaper leading to arrest and conviction of the Niebel murderers. The purpose behind the offer of reward for information to the newspaper, rather than to law-enforcement authorities, was the belief that persons who might have been afraid to go to authorities would provide information through the newspaper as intermediary.

HUSBAND SLAIN

As soon as the case of Daniels is formally disposed of in courts, Mrs. Smith will be paid the News-Journal reward, unless facts now undiscovered should preclude this action.

Mrs. Smith and her husband, James J. Smith, were the first to meet the slayers Thursday night as they made their savage attempt to escape the whirlwind they had sown.

While one of the two held Mrs. Smith at gunpoint in the back seat of the Smith car, the other marched Smith up the road and killed him without reason or provocation. After the gunmen fled, Mrs. Smith gave the alarm that brought Ohio's greatest posse into the area and resulted in the death of West at a road blockade and the capture of Daniels.

Meanwhile, the second $250 reward posted by the newspaper, for information to The News-Journal which will lead to arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the Crescent cafe bombing on the morning of July 5 still stands.

WILL KEEP SECRET

The newspaper feels that no effort should be spared to bring to justice all law breakers who contribute in any way to the disruption of peace, decency and law enforcement in the city.

Information on this crime, if provided to the newspaper, will be passed along to law enforcement authorities without revelation of the name of the person who provides it, if this is requested.

In the July 5 bombing, two Mansfield policemen and two firemen were injured in the explosion. It was no fault of the bombers that these men were not also killed. The newspaper feels that no effort should be spared to bring these persons to justice also.

WILL PURCHASE LINER

NEW YORK—(AP)—The 26,314-ton liner America, the nation's largest, will be bought back by the United States lines from the government for $7,460,000.

300 At Private Rites

Three Niebels Laid Quietly to Rest

By NITA BRANSON

John Elmer Niebel, 50; his wife, Nolana Parrish Niebel, 51, and their blonde, gay daughter, Phyllis, 20, were laid to rest yesterday afternoon in the Mansfield cemetery, years ahead of their alloted time because two avenging killers ignored God's and man's law that human life is sacred. The services were held less than six hours after one of their slayers was killed and the other captured at Van Wert.

Behind them they left a niche in family, church and community life that will never be filled. They were buried as they would have wished—with their pastor, Rev. Ben F. Hagelbarger, saying the words of farewell as he had probably said them many times at the close of services at the First Christian church. They were buried while their two grief-stricken sons and brothers, other members of the family and hundreds of friends watched with tear-filled eyes.

Although services at the Jones Memorial had been designated as private, the funeral home was packed with more than 300 who gathered to pay quiet, solemn tribute to their good friends and neighbors, while dozens of others stood on the porch, or gathered in twos and threes on the lawn to discuss in muted voices the tragic events of the past three days.

Within the funeral home, the three caskets stood near each other amidst a hundred floral pieces, offered as the last possible tribute to the three who had lived so happily just a short time before and who had died so helplessly.

TWO-FOLD TALK

Rev. Hagelbarger's talk was two-fold in theme. He first spoke of the fine life which John and Nolana Niebel and their daughter had lived.

"We stand today," he said, "with heavy hearts bowed down by deep sorrow. This tragic event has been a severe threat to the decent living of city, community and all mankind.

"I want to say first words of appreciation for these Christian lives. They have been one of the finest families I have ever known down through the years. They were a happy family, kind and thoughtful, spreading goodwill among their many, many friends.

"They were not only members of the church but lived deeply its spiritual life and their religion was real as demonstrated in their lives. They were choice personalities because their purpose in life was the highest."

For the two sons, brothers and sisters, Rev. Hagelbarger took words of comfort from John 6:68: "Lord to whom shall we go? thou hast words of eternal life."

"We go in times of sorrow to the One who gave these eternal words, to the Father who cares about His children. Nothing can separate us from His love.

"He who created the stars is able to heal broken hearts.

"You have the comfort of their many friends. And you have, too, the comfort of the Master who said 'Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest.' The eternal God Himself gives us comfort as real as that of a parent."

When Rev. Hagelbarger had finished speaking, Walter Burrier, past commander of Knights Templar, and Mrs. Isabel Roman of the Eastern Star spoke briefly in eulogy of their former associates.

Services at the grave were brief as Rev. Hagelbarger committed the bodies unto eternity and closed with a word of prayer.

City to Build Fire Station

Additional $20,000 Needed for Project

The city will definitely build a new No. 4 fire station at 411 Newman street.

This was disclosed today by Councilman Charles N. Shultz, chairman of the finance committee who reported that "every effort is being made to find the extra $20,000 needed to make the appropriation for the work equal the combination of lowest bids on the work."

Bids were opened two weeks ago and the total of the lowest bids was $74,648, approximately $20,000 above the sum appropriated by council for the construction of the two-engine fire station.

The board of control cannot let any contracts until the necessary money is appropriated.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley is studying the city's books in an effort to find the needed funds. Engaged at present in the annual re-estimation of city revenues, it is hoped that added income may be found to help pay for the money needed to build the station.

Shultz said "we must build this new station to provide more adequate fire protection to the factory district of town."

"If we don't raise the needed $20,000, we'll have to repair the present structure and that would be a waste of money."

Roomer Missing; So Is $203

A roomer who pulled a disappearing act is being sought by police today in connection with the theft of $203 in cash from the home of Floyd Myers, 67 Mendota court, early this morning.

Myers reported to police that he left $72 in his work trousers and $130 in a dress suit coat in a closet at his home yesterday evening and when he returned from a trip to Ashland early today he discovered his money and his roomer missing.

Lutz Drafts Three Murder Warrants

Richland county probably will try Robert Murl Daniels, 22, surviving member of the kill-crazy duo who murdered six innocent Ohioans during a 14-day trail of blood.

Prosecutor Theodore Lutz left today for Celina (Mercer county) with three warrants charging Daniels with first degree murder. He had one warrant naming Daniels as the killer of each of the three members of the Niebel family—John Elmer Niebel, 50, superintendent of Ohio State Reformatory's 1,600-acre farm; his wife, Nolana, 51, and their daughter, Phyllis, 20.

Lutz was confident that Daniels would be released to Richland county. "He's as good as here," he commented as he left.

He explained that at a conference of officials of Franklin, Seneca and Richland counties yesterday, a tentative agreement was reached for trial of the ruthless killer in the county having the best case against Daniels.

"They want the county that has the best case to try him so he will be put away permanently and cannot again endanger society," Lutz said.

Lutz said Daniels's return to Mansfield probably would be prevented only in the event that Sgt. L. D. Conn of the Van Wert police department should die. The officer was wounded when Daniels's companion in the wild-killing orgy, John Coulter West, 24, opened fire as Sheriff F. Roy Shaffer and Conn stopped the big automobile transport truck in which they were riding near Van Wert.

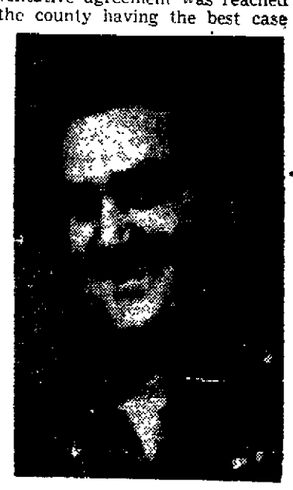
"I will ask Sheriff Shaffer to turn Daniels over to us," Lutz said "But, I expect him to say 'no' because of Conn's condition.

"We are taking the three warrants, however, in the belief that Conn will recover and we can bring Daniels back with us tonight."

REPORTED IMPROVED

Conn, shot in the lungs, underwent an operation last night in the Van Wert hospital. He rallied after submitting to blood transfusions and was reported "considerably improved" today.

There was no intention on the



SGT. LEONARD CONN

part of either West or Daniels to spare Conn's life.

"If I hadn't been caught sleeping," Daniels snarled from his jail cell, "I'd have killed all those cops."

Daniels was transferred to the modern jail at Celina last night from Van Wert. Sumner Walters, assistant prosecutor of Van Wert

Late OSR Psychiatrist Called West 'a Moron'

Files of the Ohio Bureau of Probation and Parole in Columbus today branded John Coulter West, slain murderer of the Niebel family, as "a moron" with an intelligence quotient of 60. They termed West's companion in crime, Robert Murl Daniels, as a youth with "a high average intelligence" but having "psychopathic tendencies."

A summary of the bureau's records shows:

John Coulter West's parents were separated when he was an infant 23 years ago. He was admitted to the Ohio State Reformatory Jan. 16, 1947. He was imprisoned on a charge of grand larceny, having stolen four truck tires, tubes, and rims from the Weaver Trailer and Body company in Akron. The stolen goods were returned to the company.

West was sentenced to serve one to seven years. This was the first time he had been sentenced, but he had previously been on probation in Cleveland on a burglary and larceny charge.

The Pardon and Parole commission heard West's case on Dec. 19, 1947. It is a regular practice to grant a parole hearing at the end of the minimum sentence, including time off for good behavior.

INTERVIEWED BY BOARD

The commission members personally interviewed West and studied his reformatory record and the report of the reformatory psychiatrist, the late Dr. M. N. Fowler.

Dr. Fowler reported that West was "mentally deficient, a moron," with an intelligence quotient of 60.

The psychiatrist said West was "cooperative and friendly," had a good attitude and normal apprehension, but revealed a

Baruch, the Scribe — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOLLESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Jeremiah 32:6-15; 36-37; 43:5-6.

The word of the Lord came to Jeremiah the prophet, in prison, telling him to buy a piece of land from his uncle's son; Jeremiah did so and counted out the money, Baruch being witness.

The Lord told Jeremiah to take a roll and write thereon all the words He had spoken to him, so Jeremiah called Baruch, son of Meriah, and Baruch wrote what Jeremiah told him.

Jeremiah told Baruch he was a prisoner and could not go into the temple, so he —Baruch—must go and read all he had written to the priests and the people, that they might repent their sins.

The people feared the word of the Lord that Baruch read, and the roll was taken to King Jeroiakim, but he, having a fire before him, burned the roll.

MEMORY VERSE—Isaiah 40:8.

Suspension Cut Sharply

ASHLAND — A 30-day suspension from the Ashland police force for Patrolman Robert Hamilton, charged with alleged misconduct unbecoming an officer, was reduced to seven days last night by the Civil Service Commission.

The suspension grew out of a hit-skip accident, July 17, near an Ashland county tavern, in which Hamilton's car was believed to have backed into another car and left without investigating.

Patrolman Hamilton, who vigorously denied that he was an occupant of his car at the time, requested the Civil Service hearing. Elmer Stiffler, chairman of the commission, stated the sentence was reduced "because of conflicting evidence." The commission's decision was sent in a written statment to Mayor Louis Mansfield.

Farmers Behind City Cousins In Housing In Spite of Gains

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Several years of high income have given many farmers a chance to get themselves better houses than they've ever had. But most still have a good way to go to catch up with their city cousins.

The commerce department reports that last year American farmers spent about $1,000,000,000 for new houses, repairs and remodeling. Some agriculture department specialists say the actual figure may have been 25 per cent higher.

These same experts told a reporter that 1948 farm construction should be about the same as last year's.

But despite this high level of activity, many farmers still live in inadequate houses and their prospects of getting better ones are not rated too bright.

The controversial Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill, passed by the Senate but sidetracked by the House this year, contains provisions designed to improve the outlook for farm housing. Efforts to revive this measure are expected in the coming special session of Congress.

Chief goal of farm housing features in the bill is to make credit for farm construction more liberal and more flexible. Opponents of the provisions say too little is known of farm housing needs.

Census figures afford the main evidence that farm housing is improving but still lagging behind urban dwellings in quality.

In a housing study, the census bureau shows that in 1940 one-third of the nation's farm houses needed major repairs and a sixth were overcrowded.

By last year, however, only about 19 per cent required major repairs and some 10 per cent of occupied farm dwellings were overcrowded.

Church Plans Child Outing

An outing for the children of the First Methodist church will be held Thursday under the sponsorship of Guy Kent.

It will be a birthday party for all children of the church school from kindergarten through the intermediate department. They are to meet at the church at 10 a. m. and leave by bus for the Richland Recreation center, where lemonade, ice cream and birthday cake will be furnished.

Safety Unit Will Move

"Safety Town" the instruction project for safe traffic regulations for pre-school children, will move next Monday to Bowman school from Newman school grounds.

It is expected that at least 100 children will be taught safety rules at the Bowman school ground, since there are that many registered for first grade children for the fall term.

Children will be enrolled from the Bowman and West Fifth areas and from the St. Peter's parochial school district.

So far 151 children have received instruction. Safety Town opened at Prospect park on June 28 and continued there until July 9, serving 106 children of preschool age. On July 12 it moved to Newman school where 45 children were instructed.

At the close of the two week period, ending Aug. 6, at Bowman school, Safety Town will be moved on to Maple lake park where Western avenue and Brinkerhoff pre-school children will receive instruction.

"At the end of the season," Kamen said "there will be a sort of graduation and children who have attended regularly will receive graduation diplomas."

Switchboard Operator Rips Out Phone Lines—Quits Job

RIPLEY, Me.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Winifred Hatch bustled merrily about her cottage here today—not at all sorry she ripped up the village switchboard and left this town of 350 persons sharing a single emergency pay station.

"I got sick and tired of asking, 'Number, please?'" she said. "I guess I just wasn't cut out to be an operator. I'm glad I did it because it's great to be free. Great."

It was too bad the New England Telephone and Telegraph company wouldn't be able to furnish service for four or five months, she said, but that wasn't her worry.

"After all," said the 45-year-old widow, "people got along without telephones for a long time before the things were invented. Ripley will have to do the same. I owned the telephone exchange and I was within my rights in closing it."

It seems the Ripley exchange came into being in 1913 when 63 subscribers purchased 63 telephones, put up $5 each and each supplied five poles. In 1936—still using the same equipment—the cooperative was on the rocks.

"My husband agreed then to run the switchboard for 10 years if the subscribers would give him their stock in the cooperative and pay him $1 a month," Mrs. Hatch said.

"I've carried on since his death in 1942 because he was pledged to continue to 1946."

But when the time was up, she said, she wanted to sell the business. No luck. She wanted to give it away. Still no luck.

Then she wrote the public utilities commission and told them:

"Gentlemen: I don't want this job any longer."

Mrs. Hatch said she never received an answer. She said she was thinking about this last week when she was sitting at the switchboard. It was a hot night. The lines were busy. She was thinking how nice it would be at home on her cool front porch.

"So," she said, her eyes twinkling, "I decided to go home. I cut all the wires very neatly. I ripped the connections out of the board. I severed the trunk lines—so I wouldn't weaken.

"Then I went home and slept the sweet sleep of the free."

Daniels Duo Killed More Than Dillinger

Veteran Ohio police officials still were arguing today the question: "Which was the worse — the Dillinger gang of the early 1930's or the Daniels-West pair of mad-dog killers?"

There were those who called the two Ohio Reformatory parolees "punks" by comparison with the Dillingers.

There were others, and they included many an official who was in the thick of the hunt for both the Dillinger gang and the Daniels-West killers, who said:

"The Dillingers were Sunday school boys by comparison. Sure, they robbed and they plundered, but they never killed unless they were cornered. Daniels and West killed apparently for the sheer joy of killing."

The two reformatory parolees, who were cornered yesterday near Van Wert, killed six persons, including three Mansfielders.

John Dillinger and his gang made crime a business. They didn't kill for the sheer lust of shedding blood.

KILLED FOR REVENGE

None of the killings attributed to Daniels, 24, and West, 22, made sense unless interpreted in terms of vengeance and an animal urge to kill.

The nerves of Ohioans were as much on edge this week during the manhunt for Daniels and West as 14 years ago when Dillinger and his men shot their way through the midwest.

Dillinger finally was shot to death by federal agents outside a Chicago movie theater July 22, 1934, 14 years and one day before West was killed and Daniels captured. His henchman, Herbert Youngblood, was shot to death March 16, the same year, in Port Huron, Mich.

Two of Dillinger's toughest followers died in the Ohio State penitentiary death house. Charles Makley was shot fatally when he and Harry Pierpont attempted to escape from death row. Pierpont recovered from wounds to go to the electric chair even while Dillinger roamed the countryside, shooting, looting and killing. The night of Pierpont's execution, guards patrolled the area around Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus, fearful lest Dillinger lead an attempt to free his pal at the eleventh hour.

PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1

Dillinger, public enemy No. 1 of the early 30's, was a different type criminal than the mad dog, wanton murderers of the Niebel family, a Columbus tavern keeper and the two unfortunates near Tiffin who just happened to cross the path of West and Daniels.

Dillinger's sensational crime career began shortly after his release on parole in May, 1933. Between June 10, 1933, and July 22, 1934, when he was slain in Chicago by U. S. agents, Dillinger:

Killed a county sheriff, a policeman, a federal agent and CWA worker who got in the bad man's way while he was escaping a police trap. During the same period of a little over 13 months he broke jail twice, shot his way out of two police traps, robbed at least seven banks, and raided three small-town police stations to obtain arms and ammunition.

LOCAL NOTORIETY

The two youths whose crime career came to an end at a road block near Van Wert had only local notoriety before they flashed into the national spotlight with their six killings.

Daniels, formerly of Columbus, had a police record dating back to 1941. Then he was sentenced to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster for automobile theft.

In 1943, Daniels was sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory after conviction on an unarmed robbery charge at Waverly in Southern Ohio. He later escaped from the Grafton honor camp, but gave himself up in Columbus and returned to the reformatory. He was paroled last September.

Citizens at Waverly still recall the excitement stirred up by Daniels in their community five years ago.

West and two other youths from Columbus held up a country grocery store at Buchanan in Pike county Sept. 22, 1943. They hit the proprietor, Ellsworth Walls, over the head and trussed him up in a storage room. They ransacked the place and escaped with $101 in cash.

'KILL CRAZY'

Sheriffs and deputies of Pike and Adams county caught the trio near Rarden, O. Taken to Waverly the three youths pleaded guilty to unarmed robbery and were sentenced to one to 15 years in the reformatory.

Officials at Waverly said that following the capture Daniels' two companions told him that Daniels was "kill crazy." They said they had to talk him out of killing the store owner.

West, formerly of Parkersburg, W. Va., was arrested three times in Cleveland in 1946. The third time he was turned over to authorities in Akron, where he was charged with grand larceny. He was sentenced to the reformatory on two counts. He was paroled last March 31.

Daniels and West apparently became acquainted while inmates at the Mansfield reformatory.

Bloody Trail Left By Duo Across Ohio

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Here's the bloody murder trail left across Ohio the last two weeks by John C. West and Robert M. Daniels, former Reformatory inmates who hit the end of their crime career at a Van Wert road block battle with police yesterday:

July 9—Fired shots into floor of Joe's Grill and Bar, Columbus, menacing 100 customers and escaping with $8,000.

July 10—(12:06 a. m.)—Killed Earl C. Ambrose, owner of Ambrose Grill, Columbus; wounded woman customer, during holdup.

July 19—Applied for room at New Lexington, O., hotel, but sped away in same gray car used in holdups.

July 21—Killed Farm Supt. John E. Niebel, 50, of Mansfield Reformatory, his wife, Nolanda, 51, and daughter Phyllis, 20, in a cornfield, leaving their nude bodies.

July 22—Killed James Smith, 25-year-old Tiffin farmer as he sat beside his young wife in automobile which they had been forced to side of road.

July 23—Killed Orville Taylor, 28, of Niles, Mich., at Tiffin roadside park, driver of driveaway truck. Used truck in getaway attempt.

July 23—West killed, Daniels captured in gun battle with police at road block near Van Wert.

'Foris' Start World Flight

WASHINGTON— (UP) —Three B-29 superfortresses flew eastward today in the first round-the-world flight by the giant four-engined bombers.

The superforts — from Davis-Monthan airforce base at Tucson, Ariz.—took off yesterday on the globe-girdling flight. The airforce announcement was withheld until the planes were on their way.

They refuelled at Tampa, Fla.

His right hand paralyzed, Father Mullin was given special dispensation by the Pope to use his left hand when he gives his blessings.

200 Children Attending Bible Classes At Camp

The children of Free Methodist church members throughout Ohio may not be able to take religious education during school hours, but 200 at least are having the privilege of instruction and religious activity at the church camp grounds on the Lucas road, where Rev. Myrtus Rice, president of the conference Sunday school board, supervises a Daily Vacation Bible school.

Assisted by Miss Irene Stantz of West Unity, Rev. Rice daily teaches an average attendance group of 100 children, meeting in the special children's "big top" on the far side of the 33-acre camp meeting grounds.

Classes are held each morning beginning with devotional periods. These periods include general singing, Bible passages, and object lessons. Then for 45 minutes, the children study the "Scripture Press Daily Vacation Bible School" plan, which contains certain phases of Bible teaching.

A second 45 minutes period is given over to activities and handicraft.

MAKE ARK

"Just now they're making Noah's ark and shoes worn during early Biblical history," Rev. Rice explained.

At 1 p. m. there is the Junior Missionary society session during which Miss Virginia Bates talks of the various mission fields and itheir needs throughout the world.

"Next Friday morning the school will close with a "Decision Day" period, when the children will testify and make decisions to lead a Christian life," Rev. Rice said.

GRADUATION EXERCISE

The last Friday evening of the camp period, there will be graduation exercises in the big auditorium where between 6:30 and 7:30 p. m. parents and friends will provide the audience, while the children receive their graduation diplomas.

"There's one fine thing about this year's class of children that I have noticed in particular," Rev. Rice said. "That's the enthusiasm with which they seem to have looked forward to these classes and the discipline during school. This year's group of children is the most orderly we've ever had and I've had charge of this phase of the camp meeting work for three years."

Rev. Thomas B. Orr of Galion, superintendent of the camp meeting, agreed with Rev. Rice.

"That is very true," he declared, "and I think it's all the result of the home training they get throughout the year preparing them for the Daily Vacation Bible school during the camp period."

Short Congress Session Predicted

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A prediction that the special session of Congress will last no longer than a month and produce few—if any new laws came today from a ranking Republican leader in the House.

Outlining what he called his party's "don't-get-excited" strategy, this GOP spokesman said the lawmakers may call it quits within three weeks of their reconvening next Monday.

RED PARTY OUTLAWED

SINGAPORE—(AP)—British officials today outlawed the Communist party in the Federation of Malaya and the neighboring crown colony of Singapore.

Horoscope

For Sunday, July 25.
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

SUNDAY'S horoscope encourages a day of relaxation and quiet diversion rather than lively or ambitious attempts at gayety, social or sentimental celebrations or functions. There might be mutual disappointment, lack of cordiality or hospitality. Possibly such might be owing to lowered vitality, stagnant energies or inertia, with little return or enjoyment for forcing social activities. Diet and other consideration for health might be a good investment.

For the Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to find their aspirations and ambitions badly in need of stimulus, since physical inertia or depletion may have a tendency to nullify specific effort. A general lack of interest, lowered in domestic, social, or sentimental associations may find kindred reaction in impediments or frustration in all other matters. Be alert to economy of funds also.

A child born on this day may not be especially interested in social, romantic or domestic activities, nor may it be predisposed to seek place or prestige in public success.

Sheriff Tells of Finding Daniels Cowering In Auto

VAN WERT — Sheriff F. Roy Shaffer told graphically the story of how he led the group of peace officers who shot and killed John C. West and captured Robert M. Daniels near here yesterday.

His account follows:

"We had our car blocking one lane of traffic out of Van Wert when I saw the auto transport coming up a good way off.

"While Conn (Leonard Conn, Van Wert Policeman) covered me, I stepped out to flag the truck down. I put my head in the door and asked the driver if anyone had stopped him up ahead.

"He said 'No.'

"I then asked him if there was anyone riding with him and he replied, 'Not to my knowledge.'

"He looked a little nervous. I told Conn to watch him while I looked over the two decks of cars. Conn got behind my car with his machine gun while I climbed up on the transport.

"I got up on top of the transport and ripped off the canvas from behind the first car. I saw a hat in the back seat and then I knew I had something.

"I ripped off the canvas further and there was Daniels cowering in the front seat.

"'Come out,' I said.

"He was scared and white and said, 'Don't shoot. You've got me, don't shoot.'

HAD THREE GUNS

"Daniels had three revolvers and a rifle in the front seat with him. He kept saying 'Don't shoot' as he got out of the car.

"Then everything happened. We got out on the right side of the transport and West jumped out of the door on the driver's side and opened up.

"From what I could tell Conn only used a short burst on West and then it was all over. It happened so d—n fast nobody knows who got hit first and it was all over in seconds.

"I don't know why they stopped. The lane of the road on the other side was free and they could have gotten by."

GOP Needs Only Slight Vote Shift

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Republican campaign strategists figure a voting shift of five per cent in this year's election would freeze President Truman out of all but three states outside the South.

Franklin D. Roosevelt carried only five states in 1944 by a margin of more than five per cent. Those states and Mr. Roosevelt's percentage of the popular vote cast were: Rhode Island 58.7; Arizona 59; Utah 60.5; California 56.5; Washington 57.4.

With Henry A. Wallace on the ballot in California and Washington, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey probably will need only to hold his own this year to defeat Mr. Truman in those states. Both have large left wing blocs.

Rhode Island, Arizona and Utah would not be expected to give Wallace much support if he gets on their ballots. They generally are accounted the surest Democratic states outside the South in this election year. Polls and political observers agree that Wallace will get the bulk of his support from voters who backed Mr. Roosevelt four years ago. That will make it tough for Mr. Truman in every state where Wallace is on the ballot, but especially difficult in the big industrial states with lots of electoral votes.

The Ohio Supreme court ruled that Wallace can go on the November election ballot in that state. Legal action is pending to get him on the Illinois ballot, too.

Illinois has 29 electoral votes, Ohio 26. Mr. Roosevelt barely carried Illinois four years ago with 51.7 per cent of the major party vote cast. Dewey won Ohio with 50.7 per cent. With Wallace on those state ballots, Mr. Truman would be pretty sure to lose their electoral votes.

Wallace is safely aboard the ballot in about 40 states, according to his campaign managers, although they do not come up with a definite list of them. It is a fact, however, that he is on the ballot in New York, Pennsylvania and California which cast an aggregate of 105 of the 531 votes in the electoral college.

Capture Ends Nightmarish Vigil of Daniels' Parents

COLUMBUS —(UP)— With the capture of Robert M. Daniels, suspected accomplice in a seven-murder crime wave, his parents ended their nightmarish vigil yesterday.

"Is my boy alive?" was the first greeting a reporter received when he visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Daniels at their home.

The father sat silent across the room, his face grim and worn. Mrs. Daniels, a middle-aged woman, slight appearing in a plain blue dress, twisted a handkerchief in her fingers.

"I prayed so hard for my son not to be shot," she said. "I prayed day and night.

"We're awfully glad he's alive. But now they'll probably send him to the electric chair."

At this point the telephone rang loudly. It was a friend offering sympathy. A storm raged outside and rain beat heavily on the window panes.

"I want it all to be a closed book," the father said. "We raised our boy right. We did the best we could. We're good people."

"If it hadn't been for Dillinger and the way they almost made a hero of him years ago, when my boy was young, maybe my son wouldn't have been in trouble today. The time he spent in the Reformatory didn't help either."

Mrs. Daniels broke in with a question that no one tried to answer: "Where will they put him now?"

Pre-Graduation Classes Underway

Second Swim Period Starts Aug. 10

The first of swimming tests, preparatory to "graduation" by next Friday, are now beign run off at Liberty park pool for children who have been entered in the first of the Red Cross water safety courses for the summer, Gerald Coron, water safety director, said today.

"A second summer class for children who want to learn to swim, will be started on Aug. 10," Coron said, "and those failing to make the grade during the first class may continue in the new class if they wish."

A coupon for applicants for instruction is printed herewith.

"So far," Coron said, "the children are passing their initial tests very well. Of course these are not the final ones. But we're finding an odd thing.

"The children who are the smallest in stature and seemingly the less reliant are having the most trouble. They are the children, presumably, who have been the most pampered and have not learned to be on their own.

"We are giving those children special attention, hoping that they can catch up with the more reliant ones. We are very pleased with the results of the classes, although more swimming space would have given us a greater opportunity for individual attention.

"In any event, we are sure that we have considerably decreased the 75 per cent of Mansfield school children who could not swim."

Columbus Pastor To Address Meeting

An Ashland athlete and musician and a noted youth speaker will be on the program for the July meeting of the Youth for Christ Rally when Mansfield young people join in services at the John Simpson auditorium Saturday, July 31.

Dick Messner, Ashland high school basketball star, will present numbers on the trumpet, accompanied by Miss Jacqueline Helvie, also of Ashland, who will play additional piano solos.

General group singing will be led by Jim Hunter jr., with Miss Laura Hamilton at the piano.

During next Saturday night's meeting, there will be a report given on the progress of the "Youth for Christ" magazine subscription contest.

Baruch, the Scribe — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOLLESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Jeremiah 32:8-15; 36-37; 43:5-6.

The word of the Lord came to Jeremiah the prophet, in prison, telling him to buy a piece of land from his uncle's son; Jeremiah did so and counted out the money, Baruch being witness.

The Lord told Jeremiah to take a roll and write thereon all the words He had spoken to him, so Jeremiah called Baruch, son of Meriah, and Baruch wrote what Jeremiah told him.

Jeremiah told Baruch he was a prisoner and could not go into the temple, so he —Baruch—must go and read all he had written to the priests and the people, that they might repent their sins.

The people feared the word of the Lord that Baruch read, and the roll was taken to King Jeroiakim, but he, having a fire before him, burned the roll. MEMORY VERSE—Isaiah 40:8.

Suspension Cut Sharply

ASHLAND — A 30-day suspension from the Ashland police force for Patrolman Robert Hamilton, charged with alleged misconduct unbecoming an officer, was reduced to seven days last night by the Civil Service Commission.

The suspension grew out of a hit-skip accident, July 17, near an Ashland county tavern, in which Hamilton's car was believed to have backed into another car and left without investigating.

Patrolman Hamilton, who vigorously denied that he was an occupant of his car at the time, requested the Civil Service hearing. Elmer Stiffler, chairman of the commission, stated the sentence was reduced "because of conflicting evidence." The commission's decision was sent in a written statment to Mayor Louis Mansfield.

Farmers Behind City Cousins In Housing In Spite of Gains

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Several years of high income have given many farmers a chance to get themselves better houses than they've ever had. But most still have a good way to go to catch up with their city cousins.

The commerce department reports that last year American farmers spent about $1,000,000,000 for new houses, repairs and remodeling. Some agriculture department specialists say the actual figure may have been 25 per cent higher.

These same experts told a reporter that 1948 farm construction should be about the same as last year's.

But despite this high level of activity, many farmers still live in inadequate houses and their prospects of getting better ones are not rated too bright.

The controversial Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill, passed by the Senate but sidetracked by the House this year, contains provisions designed to improve the outlook for farm housing. Efforts to revive this measure are expected in the coming special session of Congress.

Chief goal of farm housing features in the bill is to make credit for farm construction more liberal and more flexible. Opponents of the provisions say too little is known of farm housing needs.

Census figures afford the main evidence that farm housing is improving but still lagging behind urban dwellings in quality.

In a housing study, the census bureau shows that in 1940 one-third of the nation's farm houses needed major repairs and a sixth were overcrowded.

By last year, however, only about 19 per cent required major repairs and some 10 per cent of occupied farm dwellings were overcrowded.

Church Plans Child Outing

An outing for the children of the First Methodist church will be held Thursday under the sponsorship of Guy Kent.

It will be a birthday party for all children of the church school from kindergarten through the intermediate department. They are to meet at the church at 10 a. m. and leave by bus for the Richland Recreation center, where lemonade, ice cream and birthday cake will be furnished.

Safety Unit Will Move

"Safety Town" the instruction project for safe traffic regulations for pre-school children, will move next Monday to Bowman school from Newman school grounds.

It is expected that at least 100 children will be taught safety rules at the Bowman school ground, since there are that many registered for first grade children for the fall term.

Children will be enrolled from the Bowman and West Fifth areas and from the St. Peter's parochial school district.

So far 151 children have received instruction. Safety Town opened at Prospect park on June 28 and continued there until July 9, serving 106 children of preschool age. On July 12 it moved to Newman school where 45 children were instructed.

At the close of the two week period, ending Aug. 6, at Bowman school, Safety Town will be moved on to Maple lake park where Western avenue and Brinkerhoff pre-school children will receive instruction.

"At the end of the season," Kamen said "there will be a sort of graduation and children who have attended regularly will receive graduation diplomas."

Switchboard Operator Rips Out Phone Lines—Quits Job

RIPLEY, Me.—(CP)—Mrs. Winifred Hatch bustled merrily about her cottage here today—not at all sorry she ripped up the village switchboard and left this town of 350 persons sharing a single emergency pay station.

"I got sick and tired of asking, 'Number, please?'" she said. "I guess I just wasn't cut out to be an operator. I'm glad I did it because it's great to be free. Great."

It was too bad the New England Telephone and Telegraph company wouldn't be able to furnish service for four or five months, she said, but that wasn't her worry.

"After all," said the 45-year-old widow, "people got along without telephones for a long time before the things were invented. Ripley will have to do the same. I owned the telephone exchange and I was within my rights in closing it."

It seems the Ripley exchange came into being in 1913 when 53 subscribers purchased 63 telephones, put up $5 each and each supplied five poles In 1936—still using the same equipment—the cooperative was on the rocks.

"My husband agreed then to run the switchboard for 10 years if the subscribers would give him their stock in the cooperative and pay him $1 a month," Mrs. Hatch said.

"I've carried on since his death in 1942 because he was pledged to continue to 1946."

But when the time was up, she said, she wanted to sell the business. No luck. She wanted to give it away. Still no luck.

Then she wrote the public utilities commission and told them:

"Gentlemen: I don't want this job any longer."

Mrs. Hatch said she never received an answer. She said she was thinking about this last week when she was sitting at the switchboard. It was a hot night. The lines were busy. She was thinking how nice it would be at home on her cool front porch.

"So," she said, her eyes twinkling, "I decided to go home. I cut all the wires very neatly I ripped the connections out of the board. I severed the trunk lines—so I wouldn't weaken.

"Then I went home and slept the sweet sleep of the free."
